Congregating in the hall is a favorite pastime for Lisa Troxell, Judy Lowrey, Mike Steele, and Joey Swink.

Sophomore twins Charlene and Darlene Nicholas talk over the events of the first day of school.

Junior Missy McDaniel daydreams during lunch.

Checking to see if her music is marked correctly, junior Debbie Claytor prepares for a halftime show.

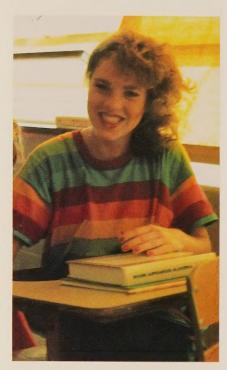

Enjoying the use of the senior lounge, Linda DeVogt, Jill Johnstone, and Chris John relax during lunch.

The yearbook sales pitch has eighth graders Kevin Lotts and Richard Fitzgerald's total attention

Brooke Shields eat your heart out! Always in vogue, junior Susie Herrick's colorful attire denotes her outspoken personality during Homecoming dress-up days.

Eyes riveted on the game, sophomore Jeff Wood watches the action on the field.

Engrossed in a conversation, Molly McCormick, Elaine Wills, Julia Straub, and Rogenia Berringer don't appear too anxious for school to begin.

Watching from the sideline, Frank Friedman and Todd Smith wait to get into the game.

Jeff Wood and Cordell Sensabaugh listen attentively as Kelly Berry explains mitochondries in Mr. Bond's biology class.

Juniors Ann Herring, Missy McDaniel, and Lisa Wood celebrate the football team's 34-0 win over Lord Botetourt.

With looks of surprise and embarrassment, seniors Ann Fritchman and Meissy Ray are caught in the act of feeshening their make-up.

Mountain Of Memories

We live in the shadow of a familiar landmark - House Mountain. Even though it is steadfast and solid, it is constantly changing. The mountain is affected by the weather . . . changing from blue, to green, to deep purple. At dusk it is silhouetted against a magnificent sunset. Sometimes the mountain is made invisible by rain, mist, or snow, but one is always comforted by the fact that the mountain is strong and everpresent.

Like House Mountain, our education will always be with us. The memories of growing up, friends, and experiences will never leave our hearts. People grow up, change and move on to new places and experiences, but the mountain and the memories are always here when they return home.

The spirit and pride that we have in our school, our athletic teams, clubs, town, and in ourselves have enabled us to do memorable things . . . things that we will carry with us for the rest of our lives. Each student has contributed to the success of our school and it is the pride of the individual that makes him achieve.

Our other achievements lie ahead and each experience will make us stronger. Our lives will change, but like the mountain, our memories will be ever-present. House Mountain is a mountain of memories.

Preserving memories, senior Kim Thomas autographs a friend's yearbook.

Coach June Mays appears amused as she displays the wound freshman Bill Gilliam received in gym class

Working off their detention freshmen Ani Marshall and Laura Smith show their artistic talents while painting the curb.

As the year began, memories from last year faded away and new memories replaced them. Student life was filled with a mountain of activities: academics, sports, clubs, dances, and the side effect of school - homework. New friendships were made and old friendships were renewed. Unfamiliar, but friendly faces were welcomed into the student body. Changes in the school's appearance boosted school pride. With a supply of never-ending activities, students began rebuilding a mountain of memories.

The Best Of Times

For these freshmen an exciting game of flag football seems a perfect way to spend a sunny afternoon in gym class.

Juniors Troy Roane and Scott Goff anxiously wait for the lunch bell during economics class.

Members of the band gather around the director, Mr. Charles Torian, to receive the day's marching orders.

Senior Katherine Sessoms learns the art of taping from trainers Fred Larsen and Steve Glenn.

Enduring the long and hot days, sophomore Amy Carter rehearses the band's opening halftime number "Pictures of Spain", at band camp.

Endless Summer

What? The summer of 81's over already? These words were among many expressed by students while school was creeping closer and closer. The thought of no more lounging around the pool, traveling to new and different places, and going to bed at night not having to worry about unfinished homework was depressing to some, yet pleasing to others. For many students the summer consisted of interesting and memorable activities which they were eager to share with others.

Several students were selected to represent the school in special programs. Summer for seniors Dorothy Goehring and Caroline Edmunds meant no time off from their education. They attended the Governor's School for the Gifted at George Mason University in Fairfax, Virginia. "It was a great experience; I really learned a lot," Dorothy said with a grin on her face. Seniors Lynn Jamison, Dana Snider and Denise Mull spent a week in June at Girls State at Longwood College, while seniors Chris John, Todd McCullough, and Skipper Staton attended Boys State at Lynchburg College. "I really enjoyed it," remarked Chris, "I learned a lot about Virginia government."

Senior Penny Paul was chosen among one hundred people to participate in the Model Executive Government Conference in Richmond. She was stationed at the John Marshall Hotel and attended meetings at the General Assembly Building. "It was a privilege to go and learn about the executive government as well as making new friends. There were some really cute guys there!" Penny exclaimed.

Many students participated in programs and camps to improve their skills in fields that interested them. Senior Mark Bowsher, along with others planning on playing basketball in the winter, went to a basketball camp held at Virginia Military Institute for one week. Mark said, "It was a good experience because there was a lot of competition." For freshmen Janie Osborne, Janice Judy, Amy Carter, and eighth grader Laurie Lamont, there was a lot of twisting and tumbling during the summer. They attended the International Gymnastics camp in Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania. Coach Bob Casper held a football camp during the first week of August at school. Most of the students who wanted to play varsity and junior varsity football in the fall showed up for it. About the same time senior Katherine Sessoms, and juniors Fred Larsen and Steve Glenn took part in an athletic Training camp at Washington and Lee. Several students attended the lacrosse camp held at W & L at the end of July.

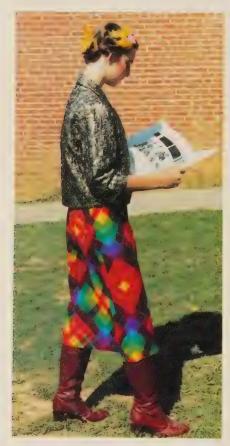

Members of the band marched in the treacherous sun at band camp held at school in late August. Sophomore Lisa Loudermilk commented, "It was a lot of hard work; it was hot, but pretty fun."

Seniors Nancy Williams, Penny Paul, Lynne Jamison, and Katherine Sessoms participated in a yearbook camp held at Roanoke College along with seventy-five other students. It was mainly to learn basic fundamentals of yearbook journalism. Lynne said, "The camp was a great help. Putting together the yearbook is a lot harder than I thought it was going to be." Nancy adds, "The camp really made us enthusiastic about having a good yearbook."

Although these activities took up much of the summer most students found time to bum around, and do the normal summer things. When the first day of school rolled around the majority of the students seemed happy to return so they could renew old friendships and pursue new ones.

Disguising her golden locks under a fiftyish wig, senior LaVerne Smith bears an amazing resemblance to her T.V. namesake.

Feathers plucked from Big Bird add to the wild outfit worn by freshman Ani Marshall on Clash Day.

Combining their artistic talents, seniors Ann Fritchman and Denise Mull prepare a mural for the Homecoming Dance.

Celebrate Me Home

The suspense of the week is ended when Mr Glen Stark crowns Homecoming Queen Donna Bryant. Maid-of-Honor Denise Mull, her escort Rob Meador, and senior representative Kathy McElroy join in the thrill of the moment.

Traveling incognito, junior Kitty Contreras adds a touch of class to her 50's Day costume.

Tres Sheik! Rob Huffman, one of many seniors who demonstrated class spirit by "sheiking out" fixes his head piece during class.

The Plasmatic's new star? Her attire suggests it but tenth grader Emily Scott is merely displaying her school spirit on Punk Rock Day.

Strutting down the hall, sophomore Trey Lowsley seems to be getting into the groove of 50's Day.

Stunned at a pep rally, Gary Blackwell can't believe that his mother could kiss like that!

'Down Home' Coming

Despite a shortened Homecoming week, students were optimistic and school spirit was evident. Pep Squad members hung colorful signs supporting the athletic teams in the halls. Practicing diligently, the football team prepared for the big game on Friday. The traditional dress-up days boosted school morale.

On Wednesday, Punk Rock and Clash Day, spirited students wore outlandish costumes. With their outrageous outfits, both senior Hollie Lowsley and Kiss look-alike sophomore Marty Graves received tickets to Friday night's game. Crowding into the gym that night, students viewed the Homecoming movie, "The Mystery of the Wax Museum," which was sponsored by the Pep Squad.

Girls in full flowing skirts, bobby socks, and displaying an abundance of red lipstick combed the halls in search of the oil-slicked hair and the rugged leather jackets of the boys on Thursday, 50's Day. Seniors, bobby-socked Kim Jacque and duck-tailed Ronnie Canfield, were the costumed winners of the day.

School spirit reached a climax on Friday, Red and White Day. Students came to school decked out with red and white painted faces and matching outfits. Twelve seniors dressed as sheiks to show their school and class spirit. The AFS Club distributed red, white, pink, yellow, and blue carnations to students during first period.

With seniors on the floor and underclassmen in the bleachers, the spirit at the first pep rally of the year was exhilarating. The cheerleaders entertained the student body with a kissing contest. Blindfolded varsity football players, seniors Gary Blackwell and Jeff Smiley, juniors Tony Randolph and Troy Roane, sophomore Jon Mamon, and freshman David Swisher were to try to guess which of the cheerleaders had kissed them. Meanwhile their mothers were escorted into the gym and each kissed her son. Not knowing which of the cheerleaders kissed him, tri-captain Gary Blackwell joked, "I don't care who kissed me as long as it wasn't Coach Casper." Sophomore Jon Mamon fell exhausted to the floor after he received a kiss from his mother. After the teachers enthusiastically gave their cheer, it was announced that the seniors had won class competition.

Coach Bob Casper encouraged more school spirit and support for the football teams as he introduced the varsity players. The junior varsity football team, junior varsity and varsity girls' basketball teams, and the boys' and girls' cross country teams were introduced by their respective coaches.

Capturing the spotlight during halftime at the Homecoming game against William Byrd, senior Donna Bryant, escorted by senior Skipper Staton, was crowned the 1981 Homecoming Queen. With expressions of delight, Donna affirmed, "It was a wonderful feeling." Senior Denise Mull, escorted by senior Rob Meador, was named Maid-of-Honor. The Queen's Court consisted of seniors Holly Buckhalt and Kathy McElroy, junior Jamie Mays and Missy McDaniel, sophomores Kelly Berry and Judy Lowery, freshmen Janie Osborne and Carolyn Rife, and eighth grader Janet Johnson.

After winning the Homecoming game on Friday night, the mood of the Homecoming Dance was nothing but festive. Senior Nancy Williams presented the Homecoming Court. The Homecoming Queen, Donna Bryant, was escorted by football tri-captains Garfield Lewis and Gary Blackwell, while the third tri-captain, Jeff Smiley, escorted Maid-of-Honor, Denise Mull. Sponsored by the Senior Class the theme of the dance was "Endless Summer" and the Down Home Band provided the music. Senior class president, Todd McCullough said, "I am grateful to all those who helped and it was their hard work that made the dance a success.'

Starting Over

Senior Ronnie Canfield and junior Wendell Baker portray the famous "Fantasy Island" duo, Mr. Roarke and Tattoo, during the yearbook sales promotion assembly.

The j.v. girls' basketball team is introduced to the student body during the first pep rally of the year.

Fiery colors, cool weather, and a rush of activities characterized the coming of fall. Classes, clubs, and organizations elected new officers and outlined their goals for the year. School spirit was on the rise.

The students who participated in the exchange trip to England presented the first assembly of the year. Everyone listened as the students told of their amusing and exciting adventures in England.

The Crystal staff kicked off its annual magazine drive and was elated by the $12,000 raised. To promote the yearbook, the staff presented the skit, "Fantasy Island."

This year the guidance department began to focus more on specialized areas of student life such as study skill workshops, teenage drinking programs and career outlooks. Juniors and seniors were also offered a SAT preparation course by Dabney S. Lancaster Community College.

College Day brought many admissions representatives to school and college bound juniors and seniors were invited to ask questions about the various schools. Upperclassmen also took PSAT's, SAT's, and Achievements during the fall.

The highlight of the fall for most juniors was the arrival of their class rings. Seniors ordered graduation announcements and were measured for their caps and gowns.

Pep Squad members worked hard to promote school spirit by making banners and buttons. The pep rallies boosted support for the fall athletic teams. The first soc hop, sponsored by the SCA, was a huge success.

School pride and support was displayed by the students who stuffed envelopes for Sigma Nu in order to raise money to purchase new gym curtains. The project was sponsored by the SCA.

As fall came to an end, the anticipation of winter snowstorms began to rise. The fall proved to be a season full of motivation and school pride.

Jinglebell Rock

The Holiday Hop, sponsored by the Junior class, was turned toward pinching pennies for Prom. Even though extravagant decorations were absent, D.J. "Robert on the Radio" from Wizard 96 kept the music flowing and invited the crowd to sing carols around the festively decorated Christmas tree. Junior class president, Robert Glenn commented that the dance "wasn't anything fancy but everyone seemed to enjoy themselves."

One half of the proceeds from the Hop were donated to the Christmas Basket Program. The check for $85.00 was presented by Robert Glenn to Mr. Stan Wetmore, Co-chairman of the Christmas Baskets, halfway through the dance

Junior Ed Shaffer summarized the event by affirming that "for the amount of time we had to put into it, which wasn't very much, I thought it went pretty well."

Eighth grader Robby Garrison, with his date and a few friends, enjoys the sights and sounds of the Christmas Dance.

Cold As Ice

As cool breezes and flakes of snow began to blow over House Mountain, the joyous spirit of the holidays, Christmas and Valentine's Day, gleamed in the eyes of students. They became preoccupied with so called "more important" activities: sports, dances, clubs, and the fringe benefits of winter weather, snow days.

During the chilly winter the athletic program had its ups and downs. Under the instruction of a new coach, the young gymnastics team experienced a rebuilding year. The volleyball team boosted its overall record from last year. The wrestling team ended another good season and succeeded in sending several wrestlers on to Regional and State competition. The basketball team excited the whole school by winning the Blue Ridge District Championship.

By sponsoring the Christmas Dance, the junior class was able to contribute half the profits to the Christmas Basket Program. The Valentine's Dance was sponsored by the sophomore class to help them raise money for next year.

The month of December was filled with a wide range of events. The Latin Club held their annual banquet. Many students participated in the filling and delivering of Christmas baskets. The senior class sold candy canes to be delivered before Christmas, and the National Honor Society began their annual fund raiser, selling M&M's. The annual Christmas Concert and Art Show was put on by the Music and Art Departments. Alumni from in and out-of-state colleges talked with juniors and seniors about their respective schools. The SCA sponsored another fundraiser in which students stuffed envelopes for Sigma Nu, earning $1800 for new gym curtains.

Forty-seven students from Lexington participated in the area All-County Band, dominating the group. The Drama Department presented three plays; including "The Lottery" which went on to perform in Regional competition.

Unscheduled vacations from school were contributed by the frosty winter weather. The snow days gave students a chance to study for exams or go sleighriding, with the latter being more popular. Due to the excessive amount of school missed, mid-year exams were cancelled and six weeks tests were administered instead. It was later determined that seniors would graduate as scheduled and underclassmen would continue for an extra week.

As the grass, trees, and flowers around House Mountain began to blossom, it was evident that Spring was on its way. Students began looking forward to warmer weather and outdoor activities, but staying mindful of the fact that spring also means junior and senior term papers.

Apparently having fun, junior Pepper Lawson helps out filling. Christmas baskets as part of the Interact Club project.

Juniors Wendell Baker, Ed Shaffer, and Jamie Mays attempt to get some work accomplished while lounging in the hall before school.

Principal Glenn Stark discusses with Mr. Littlefield the procedure to be used in stuffing envelopes for Sigma Nu before the SCA fund raiser.

Concentrating on her painting at the Art Show held during the Christmas Concert, senior Betsy Hellmuth puts her talents to use.

Snowblind

Snowdays were immensely popular from December to February. Snow fell constantly over the county and abroad causing area schools to close. School was closed for twelve days during this year's cold, windy, and harsh winter. Record low temperatures were recorded across the country and in some areas it got as low as 30 degrees below zero.

During the twelve days of absence from school, high school students enjoyed some winter fun. Students went sleigh riding and ice skating, fought snowball battles, and made snowmen. Skiing for many students was a must during the snow days. The favorite hang-outs during the rough winter days were at Deadman's Hollow and Waddell Elementary School.

When students returned to school, they were faced with exams. Some felt that there wasn't enough time to review for exams. So, for the second time in the school's history, exams were cancelled by the school board. Still students were upset because some believed that the exams would give some of them a chance to improve their grades for the semester.

But another obstacle had to be dealt with - make-up days. The school board eliminated Easter vacation and other days such as teacher work days. There were two alternatives for making up additional days: coming to school on Saturdays or adding an extra week in June. The SCA took a poll to be presented to the school board on which alternative the students liked best. The poll showed that 14% of the student body wanted the extra week; 86% of the students wanted to attend on Saturdays. The poll was given to the school board and the board announced that the schools would be extended an extra week but the seniors would be graduating as scheduled. Some underclassmen argued that if they had to attend 180 days, then the seniors had to attend those days also. On the contrary, seniors felt that since they had been in high school for five years, what difference would a week make?

Most importantly, the snowdays brought happiness, cheer, surprise, and controversy along with the soft, white blanket of winter protection called snow.

Still a kid at heart, alumnus Chris Payne enjoys an afternoon of sledding.

As the sun melts away the final bit of snow, a lone snowman serves as a reminder that winter is not yet at an end.

Taking a plunge, eighth grader Cecil Cooper displays his tubing skills as he descends the hill at "Dead Man's Hollow."

A Trip To Venus

Modeled after the inside of an intergalactic spaceship, the gym transported students into a rock and roll galaxy. Senior Nancy Williams divulged, "It was a thrill a minute to ride in a convertible spaceship." Sponsored by the sophomore class, the "Trip to Venus" took place on February 13th at 8:00 P.M. Music was provided by Michael Rhodes, a Parry McCluer alumnus. "Even though he wasn't a disc jockey, I thought the music was great," assured junior Pam Zeigler.

Senior Alan Bowles and freshman John Merchant preserved the memories of the dance by taking pictures of the couples.

The construction of the spaceship began two weeks before the scheduled take off on Saturday night. The sophomore class sold hearts with individual messages on them to be positioned on the inside of the spaceship. Decorating chairman Trey Lowsley explained, "Decorating for the Valentine's Dance was a new experience. You learn who really cares about class activities. Even though few people showed up, you still got a good feeling about the class."

"I didn't think that it would turn out as well as it did. It was a deal," stated sophomore Jon Mamom.

Sophomore Emily Scott joked, "The best part was undecorating and hiding under the parachute when it fell."

Sophomore class secretary treasurer Margaret Bolen raved, "The dance turned out better than I expected. We were glad that our first dance was a success, but we're not quite ready to tackle the Prom."

Sophomore Judy Lowrey places a decorative heart on the bleachers to add a little class to the dance.

Sophomore Trey Lowsley elevates himself to a high altitude to convert the gym into a more heavenly atmosphere while decorating for the Valentine's Dance.

Decorating tables, Jon Mamon prepares for "A Trip to Venus."

While concentrating on some last minute preparations for "A Trip to Venus," sophomore Lisa Brads works diligently.

While Vickie Swisher holds the cardboard in place, Beth Humphries works carefully to cut the cardboard and not her finger.

The senior class relaxes from a day of activity in Washington, D.C. on the steps of the Capitol Building with Representative Caldwell Butler.

Suspense lingers on as senior Ella Mae Sensabaugh tears open her results from the computer match-up.

Crimson And Clover

As the long winter ended and House Mountain began to blossom with bright colors and sunshine, the activities of school livened up as an epidemic of spring fever broke out. The students recovered from the harsh winter and were ready to get into the spirit of Spring.

On the first day of spring, the Crystal staff distributed the results of the 'Spring Fever' questionnaire or dating match-up.

The students involved in the fine arts were extremely busy. In early April the choir staged the Spring Variety Show. The Concert Band and Art Club trips took place in April, with the band retreating to Otego, New York and the Art club to Washington, D.C. The Drama Club performed "The Real Inspector Hound" for the public in mid-May, followed a week later by the annual Spring Concert band and choir concert and art show.

Club activities picked up as spring days approached. The SCA organized a May Day Carnival as a fund raiser in which various clubs participated. Cheerleading tryouts were held in May. The varsity squad was split into a red squad and a white squad and the j.v. squad remained as before. The National Honor Society and the National Junior Honor Society inducted students who had achieved the required grade point average.

As posters and buttons appeared in the halls, students deliberated as to who they would choose as their officers for next year. The class elections were held in this experimental time so that the officers-elect would have time to plan projects for their respective classes over the summer.

In March, seniors Clark Waring, Trey Kinder, Caroline Edmunds, and Cheryl Painter represented the Forensics team in Regional competition, with Caroline and Trey advancing to State competition at U.Va., where Caroline placed third. In late April seniors Robyn Rorrer, Linda DeVogt, Clark Waring, Polly Stevens, Lynne Jamison, and Caroline Edmunds, from Mrs. Hays government class, participated in the Mock U.N. Debates held at VMI. Later in March, after the annual senior trip to Washington D.C., seniors became really busy collecting data for their research projects. The tension was loosened after the projects were turned in and thoughts turned to Prom and graduation. The day before Prom the seniors picniked at Shenandoah Acres, while the juniors prepared for the big dance. Snazzed up in formal attire, juniors and seniors attended the Prom with the theme of Mardi Gras.

The athletic teams were in full color during the Spring. The baseball team finished a successful season second in the district. Both the boys' and girls' track teams were represented in the State track meet at JMU. The golf team placed a respectable seventh in the State meet.

Following the end of the Spring athletic seasons, the athletic banquet was held at the school in the evening, while the school awards assembly was held earlier that same day. Members of the band were presented awards at the annual band banquet held earlier that week.

When the last couple of weeks were visible, students began to count down the days and plan for the summer. Seniors enhanced the evening before graduation by holding a Senior Night presenting musical talent and funny skits. For the first time ever graduation was held at VMI's Cameron Hall.

After graduation the seniors went on their way while the underclassmen continued for an extra week of school. The week consisted of exams and then another school year would be behind them. Most were looking forward to the summer as a chance to rest up for the next school year approaching in the fall.

Anxiously waiting for the final results of the cheerleading tryouts are Yvonne Watkins, Ann Winfree, Donna Colbert, Sherrie Farrow, Jill Conner, Norma Sweet, Teri Merchant, and Kim Davis.

On Broadway

Bup Bup, Ba de up Bup Bup, Bup Bup, Ba de up Bup Bup... a lot of senseless gibberish? Maybe to some, but definitely not to the gymnastics team. They used this beat to their choreographed version of "On Broadway" for the spring variety show. Or maybe, da, da, dada, de, da as the varsity cheerleaders performed their choreographed version of "Celebration" for the fall variety show.

A lot of factors go into the variety shows. They consist of a director, organizer, and of course the finished product, the acts.

The director is Mr. Charles Torian, who doubles as an advisor and director. Mr. Torian makes the final decisions, gets his crew together, and runs the rehersals and shows.

The organizers are the tech crew. The purpose of the tech-crew is to help the show run smoothly backstage. That includes stage work, sound, lights, and general repairs. Mr. Torian often comments, "Not bad son."

Another important factor was the choreography directed by junior Theresa Zybko. The most important aspect of the show was the acts themselves. All of the variety shows are sponsored by the Concert Choir. The fall variety show consisted of mainly vocalist numbers except for dance of "Friends Inc." and Clark Raynal's recital of "Preludes III." The musical acts ranged from classical, country, contemporary, and rock, with special sections by varsity football chorus members and alumnus Anthony Wallace. The Stage Band and the Concert Choir each performed two numbers-definitely a variety. Junior Pam Ziegler commented, "There is a lot of talent in this school and it's neat seeing it on stage. Although it's too bad that more people don't try out than do. There is a lot of talent out there.'

The spring variety show consisted of vocalists but also three dance numbers (all three totally different), a Bill Cosby monologue done by Robert Rorrer, and a variety of musical sounds. The LHS Stage Band and Dancers provided a unique interpretation of the Pink Panther with members of the Pop's Choir dancing. Several soloists featured were Margaret Furgurson, Hollie Lowsley, and Kim Daniels.

Junior Susie Herrick said, "A lot of work goes into it but somehow by the night of the show you kind of forget all the rehearsal time and just go along with it. We always have a lot of fun."

"Lottery" Cast members Alexia Pantaze and Trey Lowsley wait patiently for their cues.

Rob Brittigan, John Merchant, and Susie Herrick give great performances in the "Real Inspector Hound."

The Drama Club was very active during the winter and spring seasons, involving over fifty students. Three one-act plays were performed for the public on March 11, 12, and 13. The plays offered a wide variety of styles and characters. Jack Frakes' "Once Upon a Playground," chosen and directed by senior Hollie Lowsley; "Spreading the News," an early 20th century Irish folk play by Lady Gregor; and "The Lottery," adapted for the stage from the famous Shirley Jackson short story, offered many newcomers to the club an opportunity to portray interesting characters. "The Lottery" performed at the Blue Ridge District

Theater Festival on March 5 and earned a Distinguished Participant rating, thereby moving on to the Regional Festival the following week at William Byrd High School.

On May 13, 14, and 15, Tom Stoppard's "The Real Inspector Hound" was this year's major production. Drama Club President Andrea LaRue was the assistant director for this challenging play which turned out to be very exciting and fun for cast and audience alike. The Drama Club actively seeks new members who would like to have the opportunity to get into something new and different.

The Student Cooperative Association (SCA) reached many goals through their activities and had fun doing them. From stapling envelopes to dunking teachers the SCA put all of its energy into raising money for the good of the school. The officers: President - Chris John, Vice-President - Todd Mays, Secretary-Treasurer - Denise Mull, Reporter - David Fitch, and Historian - Alexia Pantaze, were enthusiastic and ready to work to give the school all of the recognition it deserved.

The officers and faculty advisor, Mrs. Wanda Leadbetter, conducted polls, arranged money raisers, and organized assemblies. Each officer had his or her duties to carry out in order to keep the school in tip-top shape.

The main goal of this year's leaders was to buy new curtains for the gym windows and stage. Enough money was raised for the window curtains by doing work for Sigma Nu Fraternity

Headquarters, but money for the stage curtains had to be put in the fund for the use of next year's officers. The new red curtains were hung in December just in time for the Band Christmas Assembly and Concert. In order to give next year's SCA a head start, the elections for school leaders were held in April. The candidates for president were Fred Larsen with campaign manager Pat Donald, and Ed Shaffer managed by Jon Mamon who were defeated by Rob Brittigan and his campaign manager Ann Fritchman. David Fitch who had Pepper Lawson as his campaign manager and Theresa Zybko with Cheryl Painter as her campaign manager were beaten by Frank Friedman and his campaign manager Robyn Rorrer, for the office of Vice President. Amy Carter and her manager, Linda DeVogt, triumphed over Missy Lamont who was managed by Lynne Jamison as Secretary-Treasurer.

Running for Historian were Jodi Beeman managed by Katherine Sessoms and George Tehan who had Mark Woody as his manager. They were defeated by Amanda Badgett who was managed by Caroline Edmunds. Emily Scott, with Trey Kinder as her manager, won the office of Reporter over Mike George and his manager Mike Boyes. Lynne Draper, who ran unopposed, was elected as Honor Committee Chairman.

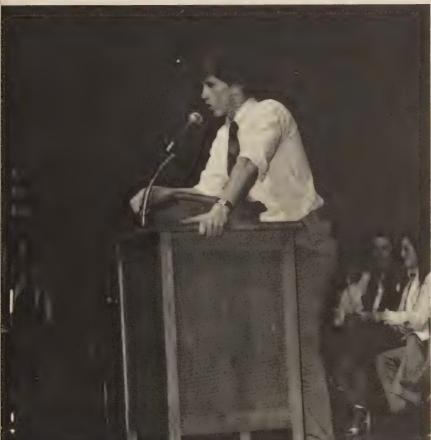

The newly elected officers were able to work with this year's leaders and get a feel of what the job will be like. They assisted the present officers in their jobs and participated in the meetings.

It was a successful year for the SCA, raising over $3,000. Reporter David Fitch enthusiastically commented, "We could not have done the job we did without the help of the students."

Success Hasn't Spoiled Us Yet

Studying old pictures from Crystals past, Kim Daniels and Damon Woody pass a few leisure monents.

After purchasing curtains for the gym, the SCA's next goal was to acquire stage curtains. Trying to raise funds for the curtains, the SCA officers decided to hold a May Day Carnival. SCA advisor Mrs. Wanda Leadpetter recruited participants from varous clubs and organizations. While Mrs. Leadbetter organized the event, he officers handled the publicity by advertising on WREL and WWZD 96, placing posters around town and school, and announcing it on the daiy announcements. The event was promoted to the area elementary schools by the j.v. cheerleaders, sophomore clowns Kelly Berry and Judy Lowery, and the SCA officers.

Early Saturday morning sponsors of events scurried around setting up sooths and adding final touches. Hot dogs, balloons, slices of pizza, fortune telling, tours of a haunted house, and a fashion show were some of the many things offered to buy or do, along with a dunking machine in which several deserving teachers were dunked by devious students. "Although it was wet, I enjoyed the opportunity to help with the project of raising enough money to buy stage curtains." stated principal Mr. Glen Stark. "I enjoyed it, and I hope the kid that dunked me three times never takes my class," cautioned chemistry teacher Mr. Paul Leonhard.

Ms. Leadbetter, Mr. Lewis Straub, Mr. Alex Bourdrez, Mr. Larry Bond, Mrs. Sally Simons, Mrs. Marge Rose, Mr. Paul Leonhard, Mrs. Jane Freeman, Ms. Mary Lou Williams, Ms. Barbara Stenzel, and Mr. John Reese participated in a teacher talent show patterned after "Hee Haw."

The highlight of the day was the SCA sponsored movie "Psycho," an Alfred Hitchcock thriller. The audience was a captive one as the mother performed senseless murders. "The movie was exciting and suspenseful, it kept you on the edge of your seat," concluded junior Timmy Furr.

Mrs. Leadbetter acknowledged that "I feel the carnival was a huge success because both students and teachers worked together in a spirit of cooperation for the benefit of the school."

"It was fun and showed if we worked together we can accomplish our goals," added sophomore Lisa Bartal.

Somewhere Over The Rainbow

Lexington has left its mark across the world, from Ohio to New York to Belgium, through the activities of various organizations. The American Field Service Club and the concert band participated in exchange trips and a student from Belgium spent a year studying in Lexington.

At 9 o'clock on April 15 the band loaded on buses to travel to Otego, New York, where they exchanged with the Unatego H.S. band under the direction of Mr. Tom Murphy. The LHS students visited the Farmer's Museum, the Baseball Hall of Fame, and went sightseeing in Cooperstown. The band performed a concert with the Unatego band and the trip ended with a dance held in honor of the Lexington students before they returned on April 18th.

Ten days later the Unatego students arrived in Lexington for a four day visit. Besides performing another joint concert, the students visited Monticello and took a walking tour of Lexington. Their visit was honored also by a sochop the night before they left for New York

Senior Ronnie Canfield chuckled, "We had an enjoyable time and for once I didn't get into too much trouble"

The AFS club participated in an exchange trip with Cincinnatti, Ohio this spring. From April 11-14 five Ohio students came here to visit such sites as Monticello, VMI, and W&L.

In May, sophomores Jon Mamon and Lori Canfield boarded the AmTrack in Staunton at one o'clock in the morning; the beginning of a ten hour ride to Cincinnati to visit their new friends. Their activities while in Ohio included a visit to the Cincinnati Zoo, the Kentucky Horse Park, and sightseeing on the outskirts of Cincinnati.

Jon summed it up by saying "It was a real educational experience and we had a lot of fun."

"I like the mountains, but I miss Belgium," explained Nathalie Foulkes, a 17-year-old from Brussels, Belgium who is spending her junior year in Lexington in order to get a high school diploma.

Nathalie arrived in the area last July to visit her grandparents, but she found a permanent home with senior Bess Littlefield and her family. With the Littlefield's she is exposed to a family setting that is close enough to town for an enjoyable walk or bikeride. She came in hopes of learning English well enough to become an interpreter and thought she would have better chance if she actually attended an American school.

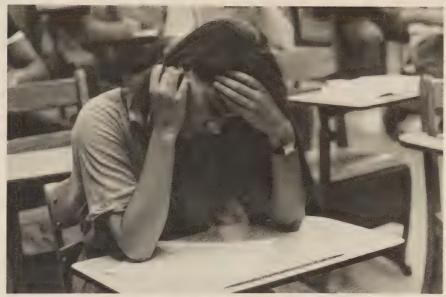

Her free time is usually spent traveling around the state and Eastern Coast. Nathalie has already visited Richmond, Washington, D.C., and New York City. She enjoys her free time more than going to school and commented that she would "rather go back to New York City."

She returned to Belgium over Christmas vacation, and plans to return there after graduation from summer school in August where she will continue her education.

Several senior band members try out New York ice cream on a stop during their tour.

Exchange student Natalie Foulks contemplates a history test in her 1st period class.

Anticipating the New York fun sophomore Charlie Webb smiles while awaiting for the trip to begin.

Confronting a friendly (?) bull, Clark Raynal leans casually on the fence, perhaps to begin a new friendship.

The bus is converted into a lounge as the band students laugh and talk during the twelve hour ride.

Our Lips Are Sealed

Decorating for Prom started in the second week of April. The halls were full of enthusiastic students covered from head to toe in paint.

Harlequins, dragons, and a row of fairy princesses decorated the walls of the gym. The theme, Mardi Gras, was brought to life with tons of confetti, silk masks, and bold colorful balloons. Junior class president Robert Glenn said that he was "pleased with the full participation that the juniors displayed while decorating."

Prom was a culmination of a lot of different artists' styles; consisting of David Fitch's figure sketches to gayly colored harlequins done by Jennifer Wise who commented, "I think Mardi Gras was a pretty difficult theme to do and I was really proud of the decorations." Andrea LaRue and Jennifer Batty designed scenic gardens and Shannon Spencer created magical princesses.

"Prom was really fun and I hope next year's juniors have as much fun as we did this year," pointed out junior Susie Herrick.

The Prom decorations were brought to life with a brilliant kaleidoscope of color with the cooperative help of the entire junior class.

As Saturday draws near the juniors put the final touches of bright colors on the last of the murals.

Discussing what the final outcome of the decorations will be are Chris Greene, Jack Gearing, Ed Shaffer, and Troy Roane.

Tediously painting a doorway, juniors Matt Fogo, Jamie Mays, Ann Winfree, and Pam Ziegler rush to finish a street scene.

Junior Tami Moore anxiously awaits to display her artistic abilities with pencil and paint in hand.

Still at work on the Friday before Prom, the juniors paint garden scenes and plan new murals.

Dancing to the tunes of Jimmy Bishop and the Turning Points is senior Kathy Thompson.

Senior Lisa Mahood and her date enjoy sitting one out.

Dancin' In The Streets

The Junior-Senior Prom was a huge success!!! The theme was Mardi Gras and as students entered the doors of the school they were surrounded by gardens and street scenes. Advancing into the gym, the impression of actually being caught in the middle of the Mardi Gras Festival was experienced. All of the decorations contributed to the theme of the evening, from the bubbling fountain in the front hall to the harlequins painted on the murals. "The decorations were attractive and proved that the juniors spent a lot of time preparing for the Prom," stated senior Lynne Jamison.

The band, Jimmy Bishop and the Turning Points, maintained a constant flair of jazz rhythm that accentuated the theme of the night. The infrequent appearances of the lead singer caused senior Katherine Sessoms to wonder, "Who is this 'incomparable' Jimmy Bishop guy anyway?" The soul and rhythm and blues beat kept many couples dancing until the midnight hour.

The highlight of the evening occured at ten o'clock, when the seniors paraded through the arch with their dates. As Junior Class President Robert Glenn announced each couple, the spotlight followed them onto the dance floor. There they danced to the soft sounds of the band or watched the final members of their class be presented. When all of the seniors had been through the arch, they danced to a slow song dedicated to the Class of '82.

Everything about the Prom was synonymous with the theme from the masks handed out at the door to the cafe style refreshment stand. Mrs. Nanalou Sauder commented,—"Working with the juniors was a great pleasure. They all got along and worked hard. It was a big success and the best Prom so far."

Concealed behind their Mardi Gras masks are junior Kim Hall and her date.

Patiently waiting for that special moment through the arch are junior Matt Fogo and senior Margaret Furgerson.

Senior Robyn Rorrer and her date, among others enjoy a brief gathering in front of one of the wall murals.

Dancing the night away is junior Timmy Furr.

Moving to the beat of the Jimmy Bishop band are juniors Wendell Baker and Stacey Dickerson.

Obviously delighted with the Prom, seniors Melody Coffey and Andy Shaffer take a few moments to rest from the dancing.

In The Limelight

One of the bright spots toward the end of the year, despite the impending gloom of exams, is the many awards banquets.

The Athletic Banquet, held on May 28, was a chance for coaches to honor sports' participants whose enthusiam and hard work were unsurpassed. The awards received are as follows: MARK DAVIS SPORTSMANSHIP - Jeff Smiley; GIRLS' BASKETBALL - Tia Poindexter; CROSS COUNTRY - Skipper Staton, Sharyn Fralin; FOOTBALL -Garfield Lewis; BOYS' BASKETBALL -Darrell Plogger; JEFF NOWLIN AWARD - David Mutispaugh; GYM-NASTICS - Robyn Rorrer; VOLLEY-BALL - Cindy Hall; WRESTLING -Chris John; OUTSTANDING WRES-TLER - Chris John; BASEBALL - Vince Cooper; BOYS' TRACK - Troy Roane; GIRLS' TRACK - Katherine Sessoms; GOLF - David Mutispaugh; CHEER-LEADERS - Dawn Sensabaugh; ATH-LETES OF THE YEAR - Gary Blackwell, Cindy Hall.

The Holiday Inn was the scene of the DECA Banquet, with awards going to: SALESMAN OF THE YEAR - Vince Cooper; D.E. STUDENT OF THE YEAR - Clinton Staton; and to Mr. Claude Crawford, a plaque from the club in appreciation of his teaching.

Band members had their night on May 27. Certificates were awarded to All-County Band and Solo Ensemble players. The Flag Corps received awards presented by Paula McKemy and Conna Duff. Sophomore Liza Woods praised her fellow musicians saying, "The band is like a family; we stick together so when one person gets an award, we all feel proud." First, second, and third year letters were presented by Mr. Charles Torian, who also awarded the seniors by giving them plaques.

Band members and their families cheered and applauded as the rest of the awards were presented. They are as follows: SHIRLEY WALLACE ME-MORIAL AWARD - Kim Daniels: RE-SERVE BAND OUTSTANDING MUSI-CIAN AWARD - Monica Wilson; LI-BRARIAN PINS - Donna Wetmore, Kim Daniels; BAND DIRECTOR'S AWARD - Lisa Mahood; LOUIS ARM-STRONG JAZZ AWARD - Ronnie Canfield; JOHN PHILLIP SOUSA AWARD - Rebecca Whitney; STUDENT CON-DUCTOR MEDAL - Rebecca Whitney; ALL-STATE BAND MEDAL - Rebecca Whitney; BAND MEMBER OF THE YEAR AWARD - Lynne Jamison.

Employers and supervisors of the COE students were entertained at dinner, held at a local restaurant as a means of saying "Thank You". Certificates of appreciation were then given to the employers by the students.

At the DECA Banquet Mr. Crawford is honored by the gift given to him by students.

Band Director Charles Torian gives out certificates of participation at the Band Banquet.

Mr. Torian gives a hidden Conna Duff her award for being a Flag Corps member and Co-Captain.

The Lucky Ones

The mood was solemn as the seniors marched into the gym for the last assembly of the school year. SCA President Chris John opened the awards assembly before turning the program over to Principal Glen Stark. The perfect attendance certificates were awarded to each class by Mr. Stark and two seniors, Edwin Johnson and Yvonne Smith, received awards for five-year perfect attendance.

Opening the academic awards, Ms. Vicki Chambers rewarded senior Cindy Smith with the Outstanding Occupational Food Student Award. Cindy had won many blue ribbons at various culinary arts shows throughout her tenure in the Home Ec. department.

The majority of awards was presented by chorus director, Mr. Charles Tor-

ian. Of the seven possible choral awards, senior Margaret Furgerson won four: Choir Spirit Award, National School Choral Award, All-Regional Chorus Member Award, and Librarian's Award. Margaret expressed her enthusiasm by saying," I was really happy to have been chosen for those awards and felt like it was a great way to end my senior year!"

As the assembly proceeded, each department gave an achievement award to an outstanding student. The highlight of the assembly came when freshman Donald Vest was awarded the Geography Award by Ms. Pat Randolph and the entire school gave him a standing ovation. Donald had received first place in a statewide World Geography contest, a first for LHS.

Another standing ovation came from the senior class for Mrs. Carol Phemister of the guidance department. Mrs. Phemister has been a friend and helpe to the students throughout their senio year. She presented the "I Dare You" Award to two juniors who demonstrated outstanding leadership abilities—Rob Brittigan and Theresa Zybko.

Senior Sharyn Fralin, who was no present at the assembly, won the Sci ence Award. When Sharyn arrived a school and was told that she had wor an award, she exclaimed, "Oh my goodness!! Why me?"

With the rest of the school standing as the seniors marched out, minds were heavy with sadness over the close of the school year, and happy with thoughts of the future.

Mr. Charles Torian presents senior Clark Raynal with his certificate for participation in the Regional Chorus as senior Edwin Johnson impatiently awaits his turn.

After receiving the Social Studies Award, senior Jeff Ax gives Mrs. Peggy Hays a hug of appreciation.

Having come a long way, freshman Donald Vest receives the Geography Award as well as a standing ovation.

A smile, a handshake, and an award for scoring the highest on the National Math Test, are given to junior Andrea LaRue by Mr. Charles Lauck

On The Road Again

At the early hour of 4:15 A.M. the senior class met at the high school to begin their government field trip to Washington D.C. One hundred and thirty students accompanied by six chaperones began the day long adventure

AT 8:15 A.M. the group arrived at the U.S. Department of Printing and Engraving and proceeded on a tour. Afterwards the class enjoyed a quick breakfast downtown, then it was off to the Capitol.

Congressman M. Caldwell Butler greeted the class of '82 on the steps of the Capitol and posed for a group picture then it was off directly to the House floor, a privilege which no other class has had. Polly Stevens assumed the role of President while Dawn Sensabaugh occupied the Speaker of the House's seat. Mr. Butler gave an informative talk while the other seniors sat attentively in the seats of the representatives.

The Supreme Court was the next stop. After an eventful morning, the seniors were given free time to browse along the mall visiting the museums and eating lunch. At 5 P.M. they hiked up to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and watched the impressive ceremony of the changing of the guard.

The Lincoln Memorial was the next stop followed by a quick drive by the Jefferson Memorial. The group then traveled to Tysons Corner to shop and eat dinner.

After burning up any energy that could have possibly been left, the seniors boarded the buses and headed back to Lexington.

Watching the changing of the guard at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, Mr. John Reese, Garfield Lewis, and Sharyn Fralin stand in awe of the guards' careful precision.

Smiling for the camera, Dawn Sensabaugh seems to be enjoying her government field trip.

Good Times

With lots of food, friends, and sun, the Class of '82 partied at Shenando-ah Acres while the juniors added the finishing touches to the Prom decorations. Mr. Jack Donald, Coordinator of the picnic, commented, "I had great cooperation from the senior class."

Ms. Mary Lou Williams and Mr. Paul Leonhard were the chief cooks. As soon as the buses arrived they fired up the grills and the supply of hamburgers and hot dogs didn't stop until half an hour before leaving. With eighteen coolers full of drinks and food that were accessible all day, no one went hungry. "We had a great time partying and pigging out," affirmed Ronnie Canfield.

Aside from swimming, members of the lacrosse club brought their lacrosse sticks and practiced on the sandy shores. While others, working up their appetites for lunch, played basketball, volleyball or threw frisbee.

Towering forty feet above the water, the cable standing in the middle of the lake was probably the biggest attraction. Robbie Huffman commented, "The tower was a trip, waaay down!"

Although Mrs. Peggy Hays avoided being thrown in, Mrs. Beverly Cappetto and Mr. Leonhard weren't as fortunate as they met their watery fate at the hands of several seniors.

After out-running several members of the baseball team, Denise Mull was nabbed by Curt McCullough and experienced a close encounter with the water.

While the afternoon was filled with numerous activities, the two most popular being eating and catching rays, it was a time for fun and relaxation with friends in anticipation of a fabulous senior prom.

Watching the other students, Ella May Sensabaugh and Beth Ewing discover that a blanket is more comfortable than the cold water.

Sniff, sniff, smile, sigh - all these reactions and more were witnessed and felt at Senior Night. Watching their classmates and friends walk up the stairs to the stage to receive an award, the audience could feel the aura of friendship, love, and sorrow that mingled into tense excitement as the night proceeded.

The first part of the program was the award's presentation. The recipients of each award are as follows:

With the close of the entertainment portion of the program, there was a reception in the cafeteria with cakes decorated with that special number '82, punch, laugher, and many hugs.

The special evening had come to an end, but another very special one lay ahead. With the ending of both these nights, our Senior Class will have embarked on a new dimension of life. We wish them luck and much happiness.

Graduation Day

Marching to the tune of Pomp and Circumstance, the Class of '82 gathered together formally for the last time. The class was led in the graduation ceremony by Valedictorian Bess Littlefield; Salutatorian Penny Paul; and Class President Todd McCullough.

Bess addressed the class on the topic of friendships in high school, their importance, and how they prepare us for future relationships.

memories were the topics covered by Penny.

"Seeking the Abundant Life" was the theme of the Reverend R. E. Monroe's speech. The Reverend Monroe, father of graduating senior Michelle Monroe, spoke on seeking an abundant life through good health, Christ, and knowledge.

The ceremony was held for the second time in history indoors, the first being at W&L's Warner Center, but this year in VMI's air-conditioned Cameron Hall. The change from the traditional outdoor ceremony was a fortunate one since it began raining shortly before the ceremony began.

Surrounded by friends and family, each senior felt a sense of accomplishment as his name was called to receive his diploma. While some of the graduating seniors chose to pursue careers, a large majority are furthering their educations by attending college, where in several years the process of graduation will be repeated.

With a smile of relief, senior Malcolm Higgins shakes Ms. Elizabeth Ramsey's hand as she congratulates him.

Beginning their second season in the Blue Ridge District, the Scarlet Hurricane athletes were ready to take charge. With practices starting in the heat of summer, the cool of winter, and the warmth of spring, our athletes pushed forward to achieve new goals. Under the supervision of dedicated coaches, the athletes strived for personal and team accomplishments. As the Scarlet Hurricane left their mark on district, regional, and state athletics, the seasons are summed up best by the Latin phrase, "Venimus, Vidimus, Vicimus," translated "We came, We saw, We conquered."

LET'S GET PHYSICAL

Senior Kim Jacque displays her volleyball skills in a match against William Byrd which the Lady Red won 2-1.

Jumping higher than a "Rocket", senior Garfield Lewis sinks a shot that aided in the Varsity Basketball team's win over Natural Bridge, 64 to 49.

"We had a very successful year, filled with many outstanding moments, especially winning the District Championship." - Jeff Smiley.

"We did alot better than the community thought we would. The difference between this year's team and last year's was that we came together when we had to." - Gary Blackwell.

"What made this season so outstanding was that we played teamball and always stuck together when times were tough. We proved to a lot of people that we could be a championship football team; that's what hard practice does for a team." - Edwin Johnson.

"We had an outstanding year. Just a few mistakes kept us from going further than we did." - Troy Roane.

With new varsity coach Bob Casper, the season consisted of many outstanding moments. The Hurricane succeeded in becoming Blue Ridge District champs with a season record of 9-2. During the Wilson Memorial game Garfield Lewis broke the record set by Mark Davis in rushing with 1480 yards over Davis' 1430 yards. Garfield also won the title of the player of the year from the News-Gazette.

Beginning the season with a bang, the squad won its first nine games. The team easily defeated Natural Bridge, Rockbridge, and Clifton Forge. The Homecoming Game was a great success when they won over William Byrd. Winning the next two games over Lord Botetourt and Staunton River with scores of 34-0 and 42-0 respectively, boosted the team's morale.

There were two discouraging losses for the team. One to our unyielding rival, Parry McCluer, and the second to Martinsville in the regional game held at Alleghany County High School.

Outstanding players were named to the Area, District, Regional, and Timesland teams. The News-Gazette chose Jeff Smiley - center, Todd Mays - guard, and Garfield Lewis running back to the All-Area defensive team. Todd Mays - tackle, Gary Blackwell - linebacker, Garfield Lewis - defensive back and punter, and Pug Merchant- defensive back were named for the defensive unit on the Area team.

Kendall Hassler, Jeff Smiley, and Garfield Lewis were chosen for the offensive unit for the District team. The District team consisted of Todd Mays, Gary Blackwell, Pug Merchant and Garfield Lewis for the defensive

The Roanoke Times chose Garfield Lewis for the defensive team and Jeff Smiley and Gary Blackwell for the offensive All Timesland team.

Garfield Lewis was picked for the Regional offensive and defensive first team; also chosen for offensive first team was Jeff Smiley. Picked for the second team were Kendall Hassler offense; Todd Mays, Pug Merchant, and Garfield Lewis - defense. Garfield Lewis was chosen for the All State defensive team. Jeff Smiley received honorable mention All State AA center.

"Alot of people didn't think we would go as far as we did. We were district champs and you can't take that from us!" - Garfield Lewis exclaimed.

Shake It Up

Varsity Players strain their muscles to the limit under the stern supervision of Head Coach Bob Casper in preparation for the scrimmage against Nelson County which Lexington won decisively.

With the snap of the football, Junior Ernest Rife prepares to spring into action against the Natural Bridge Rockets. Lexington won the game 24.7.

Ecstatic yells echo through the locker room as Earl Walker, Gary Blackwell, and Kendall Hassler express their happiness at getting another win.

Exhausted Senior Todd Mays takes a wellearned rest on the side line during the Covington game. Lexington won the game 27-20 earning the Blue Ridge District Football Championship.

Charge!

"We had a good year with our new coach; he did a lot for the eighth graders on the team," pointed out co-captain Tim Stewart. Coach Jack Donald entered the season with no experience as a head coach, but you couldn't tell it by the end of the season.

With the help of a rebuilt, but powerful, offensive line, an experienced backfield was able to maneuver over opposing forces in order to score the needed touchdowns. With the leadership of two fine quarterbacks, co-captain Tim Stewart and eighth-grader Chris Rowsey, the Little Red team found success. Mike Colbert, leading rusher, commented, "I didn't have a very good year this year and I really don't expect to play much next year." Robert Doss and David Swisher, on the other hand, claimed they had a good season.

A qualified and experienced defense, led by co-captain Chris Peebles and eighth grader Leonard Stewart, assisted in producing their better than average season mark of 4-3. "It was a pretty good year, but we had to go through a few adjustments; breaking in a new coach and bringing up young eighth graders," remarked Chris. Leonard judged the season as a good defensive year. "We had strong line-backers and a fairly good secondary; overall the defense was well experienced with a few new players, such as myself," acknowledged Leonard.

"We had a fairly decent year," volunteered Coach Donald.

Sophomore Tia Poindexter takes to the air as she leaps over her Rustburg opponents to score. Lexington lost this Regional game 48 to 52.

Co-captain Tia Poindexter battles with a Rustburg player for possesion of the ball at the Regional game.

For the first time in the history of girls' basketball, the girls clinched the district title and advanced to regionals. The team went into the Blue Ridge District Tournament, held at Staunton River, in second place behind William Byrd. Their first opponent, Covington, was easily overwhelmed by a score of 47-40. Two nights later first place Byrd succumbed to a 43-36 score and the Lady Red emerged as Blue Ridge District Champions. At the Region III tournament held the following week at Rustburg High School, the team lost a spine-tingling game to Rustburg 48-52. Although the loss was heartbreaking to the girls, it was a victory just to get to play in the regional game. Senior co-captain Jennifer McCown commented, "I was proud to have been part of the team.'

Coach Barbara Stenzel was very pleased with the team and their record. She boasted, "I expected Covington, Byrd, and Lexington to be the top three teams in the district. We lost three starters to graduation in 1981 but I knew that with a lot of hard work and team unity we could win the District Championship."

To start the season off, senior Cindy Hall and sophomore Tia Poindexter were named to the Rockbridge County All-Tournament Team following the Tip-Off Tournament held at Natural Bridge on August 27 and 29. Both girls later went on to be named to the Blue Ridge All-District Team. Tia was also selected for the All-Regional Team in Region III.

At the end of the season, Tia emerged as the all-time leading scorer for the school after just two seasons with 585 points. She also had the most rebounds for the season. Cindy Hall, season leader in assists, graduates as third on the all-time school scoring list.

Pleased with the outcome of the season, Cindy stated, "There were two things that made us stand out from previous seasons: The coaching of Miss Stenzel and the teamwork on and off the floor."

Hit Me With Your Best Shot

"I liked basketball, I'm going out again next year," enthusiastically commented Lavelle Payne, which was how many girls on the J.V. team felt.

After their 11-6 season record, they also came out on top by winning the J.V. girls basketball district tournament, which was held at William Byrd High School, on November 5.

"I thought our season was successful," said eighth grader Terry Merchant. Bridget Cooper shared a similiar feeling about their "great season." Chris Fritchman explained, "As far as I'm concerned, I think we had an excellent team. Out on the court everyone put their best efforts forward and we came out a winning team."

When Miss Mays was asked what she thought about their season, she replied, "Excellent; they worked hard and were dedicated. It was a surprising season from having an 0-16 season last year."

The J.V. squad had two exciting overtime games, one of which was against Natural Bridge. They pulled ahead and won 31-29. The other was with Alleghany, which they succeeded in winning also, 32-30.

When Miss Mays was questioned about whether next year's team would be successful, she answered, "I never know, but hopefully they will."

If Terry Merchant doesn't get the two points, Karen Schmaus is ready for the rebound.

Liz Lewis shoots for two while the Natural Bridge Rockets wait for the rebound. Lexington won 36-13.

Watching her teammates set up an offensive pattern, freshman Bridget Cooper dribbles the ball down the court at Natural Bridge.

During the Natural Bridge game, J.V. cheerleaders Marsha Mull, Julie Lawhorne, Kim Davis, Donna Colbert, Sue Fallon, Connie Colonna, and Jane Huntley enthusiastically arouse the crowd.

Elliot Hill, Vo-Tech Loop, Glenn Hill, Kroger Loop, Monster Pond, William Byrd, and Coach Charley Lauck are the names branded into the minds of every runner on the cross country team.

Led by team captain senior Skipper Staton, the inexperienced boys' team finished with a 2-9 record in dual meets and a 14-52 record overall, including invitationals at U.VA. and ALCOVA. The boys' team placed fourth at the Blue Ridge District Meet at William Byrd.

The girls' team completed another record-breaking season with a 7-2 dual meet record and a 16-12 overall record, including the U.VA. Invitational. Running strongly at the Invitational, Skipper placed fifth overall and sophomore Emily Scott placed eleventh overall. Co-captains Lynne Jamison and Emily Scott competed in the ALCOVA Invitational where Emily finished fourth and Lynne finished seventeenth. Skipper placed fourth overall at the ALCOVA meet. Finishing second behind William Byrd in the district meet and in third place behind Brookville and William Byrd in the Region III Meet at Alleghany County, the lady harriers rallied back at the State AA Meet in Charlottesville placing eighth overall and beating William Byrd, Brookville, Western Albermarle, and Waynesboro, four teams which had previously beaten them.

Number one runner for the boys' team and in spite of being hobbled by a painful ankle injury, Skipper placed sixth in the district meet but was unable to compete in the regional meet because of the injury. Joining the team later in the season, senior Clark Waring and junior Greg Krammes helped form a pack with sophomore hopefuls Trey Lowsley and George Tehan.

Emily, number one runner for the first half of the season, senior Sharyn Fralin number one runner for the second half, and freshman Debbie Erchul all placed in the top ten at the Blue Ridge District Meet. Sharyn and Debbie placed in the top ten at the regional meet and in the top twenty at the state meet. Emily set the girls' school record on the new course as 22:07 and Skipper set the boys' school record on the new course at 16:56.

Even though there weren't enough runners for a j.v. team there were three eighth graders on the team: Johnny Fix, Robbie Canfield, and Sarah Rorrer.

Both of the teams were young and plagued with injuries, but worked hard all season to overcome these handicaps.

Coach Lauck believes "prospects for the 1982 season are good because of the young runners returning, although the seniors - Skipper, Clark, Sharyn, Robyn, Penny, and Lynne - will be hard to replace."

Senior Penny Paul continually emphasized, "The pain is real." Coach Lauck added, "Penny continued to run through the pain, earning the 'Most Improved Runner' title. Lynne Jamison, running with painful muscle cramps all season, epitomized the courage, mental toughness, and dedication required of long distance runners."

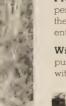

(first row) Sarah Rorrer, Robyn Rorrer, Lynne Jamison, Penny Paul, (second row) Emily Scott, Debbie Erchul, Sharyn Fralin.

The Long Run

Preparing to charge up a muddy cliff, Skipper Staton gains ground over his opponents at the district meet where he placed sixth overall entitling him to compete in the Region III meet.

With great stamina senior Sharyn Fralin pushes on to the finish line during a dual meet with Waynesboro in which she placed second.

With the crack of the gun, twenty girls dash to gain the lead to finish the 3.1 mile course as the winner.

Get Down On It

With an overall record of 8-3, the team placed fourth overall at the Blue Ridge District meet at William Byrd with the following wrestlers advancing to the Regional meet also held at William Byrd: Jeff Kostelni, Peyton Winfree, Fred Larsen, Frank Friedman, Jack Tucker, Rob Meador, and Chris John. Both Fred Larsen and Chris John placed second entitling them to compete in the State AA meet held at Phoebus H.S. in Hampton, VA. Although each wrestled well, neither placed in the meet.

While the varsity wrestlers were involved in meets and tournaments, two J.V. wrestlers, freshman Jon Larsen and eighth grader Eddie Brown, competed in a J.V. tournament held at Waynesboro H.S. Jon placed first and Eddie placed second in their respective weight classes.

"It was a very suprising year for such a young team in the lower weights. I expect a strong showing in the lower weights next year," commented co-captain Rob Meador.

Competing in the W&L Christmas Tournament, the team placed third overall with both junior Fred Larsen and senior Jack Tucker placing third, sophomore Hugo Kostelni achieving a second place finish, and Chris John capturing a first place.

Co-captains Chris John and Rob Meador presented five captain awards at the post season banquet. The hilarious awards were presented to the most deserving wrestlers who epitimized the title of each award. The Fish Award went to sophomore Glenn Dudley. Junior Fred Larsen received the Hog (Fat Boy) Award. Freshman Peyton Winfree got the Gink Award and the Jelly Bones (Mr. Flexibility) Award went to Jack Tucker. Most likely first year man to succeed (Future Stud) Award went to freshman David Jones.

Senior Chris John said, "Despite the fact that it was a rebuilding year, our record was good and our younger wrestlers really came on strong."

Junior Greg Krammes acknowledged, "With Coach Casper still involved in football, we couldn't have started the season without the expert advice and guidance of Coach Reese."

"I'm pleased with the efforts that the young men displayed, I felt that what was supposed to be a rebuilding year to finish 8-3 was a tremendous accomplishment. I'm thankful for the help of Mr. Reese," replied Coach Bob Casper.

Dedication

No coach?! The remaining gymnasts from last year's champion team were shocked. June Mays was resigning from her position as head coach of the gymnastics team because of medical problems. The administration searched for someone on the surrounding schools' staffs to replace her but no one was to be found.

The gymnasts themselves looked for a willing, qualified coach but in vain. Finally, just when everyone was giving up all hope, Mrs. Michelle Payne stepped forward and volunteeered to coach.

Although she knew little about the sport, she came in, conditioned the girls - running them, supervising the weightlifting and talking them through the tumbling exercises. She was well accepted by the girls. "She was strict, but for good reasons, and really came through when we needed her." says freshman Janie Osborne, who was a first year competitor on the team.

When the season actually started, the girls were psyched and ready to repeat their winning season. This enthusiasm carried the young team through their losses. "Every team has to have a building year. We did a lot better than I thought we would do without all those seniors we lost last year. A lot of our meets were really close so it's not like we got blown away. Coach Payne is the reason we did as well as we did," Ami Settle commented, defending her team.

It was a building year for the very young team. Robyn Rorrer was co-captain and the only senior. She competed in all four events: bars, floor exercise, balance beam, and the vault. Bars was her best event and she almost always placed either first or second. Juniors competing were Ami Settle, Jamie Mays, Linda Price, and Holly Clark. Co-captain Ami Settle competed on floor, beam, and vault; Mays on the vault; Price on vault and floor; and Clark on bars. Sophomore Amy Carter did floor, bars, and vault. Near the end of the year, filling in for Settle who dislocated her thumb, Carter volunteered to do the beam. Freshmen Janie Osborne did the floor exercise, beam, and exhibition vault, while Theresa Rhodenizer specialized in the vault. Eighth graders Elizabeth Knapp, Yvonne Watkins, and Laurie Lamont worked out with the team but weren't allowed to compete.

Though the girls didn't win any competitions this year, members of the team always placed in the meets. The team did go to the district tournament where they placed fourth. Robyn Rorrer and Theresa Rhodenizer also competed in the Region III Tournament on the bars and vault respectively.

Up, Up And Away

"The team worked hard and we went over obstacles which nobody thought we could overcome." - Jr. Rife

The season began with big wins over local rivals Rockbridge, Natural Bridge, and Parry McCluer. Even though the thrill of winning was dampened by the loss to Fort Defiance early in the season, the streak continued through the Christmas Tournament. Pug Merchant and Troy Roane were named to the All-Tournament Team for their performances in the victories over Natural Bridge and Parry McCluer.

With six wins and seven losses, the second half of the season wasn't as successful. Most of the losses, however, were by only two or three points with several of the games going into overtime.

The sweet smell of victory returned to the squad in the district tournament. It began with a tremendous win over Allegheny (74-42) and continued through the semi-finals against Covington (67-51) and the finals against Lord Botetourt (46-44). Squad members named to the All-District V Team were forwards Pug Merchant and Troy Roane

The season ended with a first-round loss in the regional competition to Martinsville (68-58). Roane and Merchant were also named to the All-Regional Team (2nd Team and Honorable Mention, respectively).

Coach Crawford summed up the season by acknowledging that there were "lots of controversies; lots of ups and downs with the loss of players. But the players came through like true Hurricanes when the pressure was on."

Nobody Said It Was Easy

Co-captains James Walker and David Mutispaugh guided the JV Basketball team to a 7-8 season. Walker, who led the team in scoring, basketed 162 points for the entire season. "The team was really proud we beat Covington, because we were the only ones in the district to do so." related David Mutispaugh about the proudest event of the season.

Hard work and odd practice hours contributed to the team's successful season. Training before school at 6:00 A.M. and in the evening at 7:30 P.M., practices were held at a variety of places such as Lylburn Downing and Effinger schools.

When the players were asked where the most outstanding or toughest games played, it was unanimous - Ford Defiance and Covington both because of close scoring games.

Freshman Reggie Mays described the season as being much better than last year's since they won more than one game. Also, freshman Andy Jay stated, "We started out well, but declined after a while; but most of all we had a lot of fun."

Coach Dave Melton summarized, "Out of fourteen players, seven were sophomores and five were eighth graders. William Merchant was the most improved player and I'm really looking forward to next year."

Although this is only the second season for an organized girl's volleyball team, this year's record was much better than last year's. The varsity girls ended their season 3-12; JV ended theirs 0-10.

Coached by Ms. Barbara Stenzel there were nineteen girls participating on the two teams - 10 varsity and 9 jv. Varsity captains were Kim Jacque and Cathy Colonna; JV captain was Bridget Cooper.

Lexington won its first match against Parry McCluer, followed by wins against Bath County and Covington.

"This year the volleyball team has improved tremendously and next year it will be even better," Val Henderson remarked. "As the team builds and more people get interested, the team will become better."

"This was my first year playing volleyball. I enjoyed playing even though we had a losing record." proclaims Stacey Potter.

When asked how she thought the team did this year and about her predictions for next year Ms. Stenzel commented, "This was a very exciting year for the volleyball team. We entered the win column and I had a great group of young ladies to work with. We are definitely going to miss our seniors next year especially co-captains Cathy Colonna and Kim Jacque. I think you'll see us have an even better season next year because the whole JV team will be back as well as several varsity members. The more experience we have the better we'll become."

Cathy Colonna sums up the whole season by saying, "I feel the team as a whole really gave a lot of effort this year, and it showed on our improved record. With only three members returning next year we wish them luck, and a great season."

Take Me Out To The Ballgame

Under the instruction of a new coach, Dave Melton, the baseball team performed extremely well. The season record of 15-4 ended with the loss of a district play-off game against Covington. Junior Darrell Plogger stated, "I thought it was a good year, but we should have gone farther."

Quite a few players were chosen for the All-District Team. The players included: Jeff Ax - 1st base; Malcolm Higgins - 2nd base; Jeff Smiley - 3rd base; Gary Blackwell - catcher; Vince Cooper - outfielder. Individual and team leaders are as follows:

Stolen Bases 17 Cooper Runs Batted In 19 Ax

Extra Base Hits 10 Ax, Blackwell Fewest Strike Outs 4 Higgins

The team consisted of 18 players; six seniors, six juniors, five sophomores, and one freshman. "It was a good year and the coaches helped a lot," said freshman David Swisher.

Even though the seniors will be leaving, the team will have experienced players to work with in the future. "The baseball team enjoyed a very successful season, ending with a 15-4 record. Five senior starters will be missed, but twelve returning players will form the nucleus of next year's team," confidently predicted Coach Melton.

It Takes A Swinger

Having an exceptional season under the strict guidance of first year coach, Claude Crawford, the golf team produced many victories and few losses. Among the victories was the first place trophy won at the first annual Lexington Invitational; while at the Albemarle Invitational, second place was captured.

Success in tournament play continued as the team fared well in Districts, Regionals, and States. Led by senior Steve Felts, who shot a 75, the golfers proceeded to bring home the District trophy. At Regionals, sophomore David Mutispaugh shot a 74, leading the team to second place. This victory enabled the team to advance to State competition where Mutispaugh again dominated and came in with a 72 on the first day and an 80 on the following day, leading the team to seventh place.

Lee Faulkner and Steve Felts agreed, "We had good seasons, but they could have been better, and we should have won States." Summing it up, Coach Crawford remarked, "It was a successful year; we had some good times and some bad times, but most of the times were good times."

Displaying their plaque from the Lexington Invitational are Lee Faulkner, Steve Felts. David Mutispaugh, Scott Goff, Ward Huffman, and David Watts.

Anxious to get his game started, senior David Watts carries his club with him.

Mercury, the fleet-footed god with winged sandles, was gifted with speed. Today, the "Mercuries" of the track team not only have speed but exceptional jumping ability and sensational throwing talent.

These runners had a good season with four wins and three losses. Whether they ran at VMI, with home-track advantages, or traveled away to the beat of "Drop the Bomb," the Mercuries were exceptional. Troy Roane summarized the season with a smile. "Overall, I think this year was very successful; maybe not record-wise, although we did have a winning season. But everybody went out and did what they had to do to be successful." Roane was a record setter himself, breaking the school record in the high jump. His distance "jumped" from 5'10" at the beginning of the year to 6'3" at the close of the season.

There were some other outstanding runners, including freshmen Mike Colbert who advanced to the State meet, and Mark Smith who ran distance for his first year. Mike plans to run track again next year in the same events and Mark is going to convert his training to Cross Country.

Both the J.V. and varsity teams went to Districts where the J.V. team placed second. From there several varsity runners went to Regionals and to State.

Coach Mike Brown reflected about his team and their season, "It was a tough season. With no assistant coach, it was very hard to give individual attention that we could have."

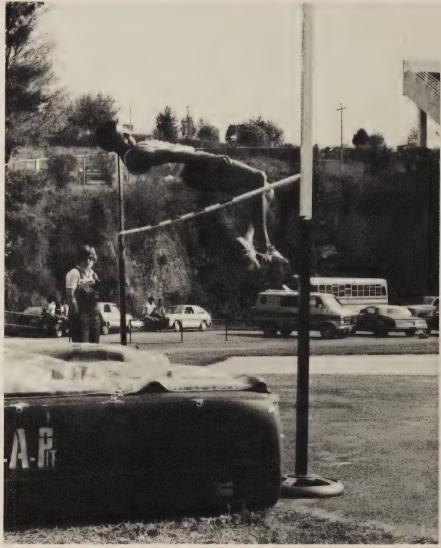

Striding the hurdle and passing all, is senior Mark Woody.

Sailing effortlessly over the high jump rail, junior Troy Roane breaks the school record.

Leading the pack in the 100-yard dash, freshman Mike Colbert is clearly the winner.

Giving it all he's got, sophomore Mike Williams tries to outdo his opponents in the long jump.

Running alone to victory, freshman John Thompson's face reflects the effort put forth.

"The most fun was the Harrisonburg Relays because we weren't that nervous so we had fun and everyone did well!" enthusiastically commented senior Sharyn Fralin. The girls' track team had a year of victories, broken school records, districts . . . regionals . . . states!!! School records were broken by Tia Poindexter in the long jump and the high jump; Katherine Sessoms in the 100-yard and 200-yard dashes; Sharyn Fralin in the 110-yard hurdles; and by Jamie Mays, Amy Carter, Lavelle Payne, and Denise Mull who comprised the 880 relay team.

In the District Meet the track team lost to William Byrd by only 2½ points. Championships were won in six events: Tia Poindexter in the high jump and long jump; Katherine Sessoms in the 100-yard and 200-yard dashes; Sharyn Fralin in the 400-yard dash; and Sharyn Fralin, Amy Carter, Carolyn Rife, and Tia Poindexter in the mile relay.

Then, on to Regionals! Lavelle Payne, running the 440, competed in addition to all of the District winners. Tia and Katherine advanced to the State Meet where Tia placed sixth in the high jump.

Two individuals on the team, Tia and Katherine, were undefeated in district competition (Tia in the high jump and Katherine in the 100-yard and 200-yard dashes). Also undefeated was the mile relay team.

After the season was over there was a cookout at Sharyn Fralin's in celebration of the victorious season.

At the Athletic Banquet, Katherine Sessoms received the Coach's Award. Coach June Mays wrapped it up, "It was a great season!"

Run For The Roses

Having just learned her time in the 220, eighth grader Chug Nowlin opens her mouth in disbelief.

Senior Denise Mull leaps the hurdle as she maintains only a few seconds lead over her opponent.

Senior Katherine Sessoms burns up the track as she easily outdistances her nearest opponent in the 100-yd. dash.

Relieved by the sight of the finishline, miler Debbie Erchul's face reflects an expression of relief as she prepares to break through.

Looking for the finish line, sophomore miler Emily Scott takes the lead just ahead of teammate Debbie Erchul.

Tough Guys

A large majority of students participated in two athletic clubs not sponsored by the high school. They are the Rockbridge Aquatics Club and the Lexington Lacrosse Club.

The Rockbridge Aquatics Team or RATS included these swimmers from LHS: Margaret Bolen, Meissy Ray, Rob Brittigan, Susan Imeson, Tom Rogers, Caroline Edmunds, April Friski, Karen Schmaus, Christie Friedman, and George Tehan.

The AAU team had fewer meets this season because they lost a lot of swimmers when they separated from the Staunton YMCA team. The RATS did compete against swimmers from Blacksburg and Waynesboro. The meets were held at W&L with several swimmers doing well individually. "I love it! I have the best time swimming," enthusiastically commented Margaret Bolen. "This season was different because we branched off to form a new team, which meant we lost a lot of power from the Staunton team," noted junior Rob Brittigan.

With Coach Remillard, the new AAU team ended the year with a banquet to recognize its swimmers.

Headed by senior co-captains Matt Elmes and Chris John, the Lexington Lacrosse Club ended their season 8-4.

Although the club is not sanctioned by the Virginia High School League, high school students from Lexington and Buena Vista make up the LLC. The club is coached by Mr. "Buddy" Atkins and assistant coaches Mr. Glenn Keller and Mr. Gordon Saunders. The club held practices at Waddell School as well as W&L. Home games were played at Glenn Maury Park and W&L's Wilson Field. Some of the LLC's opponents were Blue Ridge, North Cross, VES, Roanoke Catholic, and Palm Beach Academy.

The five leading scorers were Chad Joyce, Mike McNeese, Chris John, Todd McCullough, and Jesse McGuire, respectively. Chad Joyce, Chris John, Todd McCullough, and Matt Elmes led the club in assists. "It was a nice season, I enjoyed playing on the team and I think we played well as a team," responded freshman defenseman Jon Larsen. Senior goalie Pat Donald recorded a total of 69 saves, while freshman goalie Peyton Winfree had 24 saves.

Unyielding support for the team came from parents, who assisted in transporting the team to away games. The club's statisticians were Jill Johnstone, Lynne Jamison, and Penny Paul

Matt Elmes commented that "this was the last year for the players who participated on the original LLC team and next year we'll see how the rebuilding program has worked."

Both teams had successful seasons with active support from the students at LHS. Although the members are not recognized by the high school, they deserve praise for all their hard work and devotion to their individual sport.

Whether you want to learn about Napoleon, or how fast a car can go down a hill, or if you want to master a typewriter or a musical instrument, there's bound to be a course you can take to satisfy your need. If you want to know what the school motto - Labor Omnia Vincit - means, then enroll in a Latin class; or if the answer to $y = \sin 3x$ is inconceivable, then taking calculus is the solution. With such a wide variety of courses it shouldn't be too difficult to fill up a schedule with six classes a day for five years. The academic program provides a strong basis for our futures. Those tidbits learned during our school years accumulate to build a mountain of knowledge which, like House Mountain, is everlasing.

Be True To Your School

Undaunted by the camera, freshman Pam Higgins continues to chat as senior Rogina Berringer's attention is diverted toward the photographer.

Unaware that he's being watched, sophomore Scott Williams continues to read his biology assignment.

Challenged by the complication of Algebra II, Gary Blackwell and Alicia Buchanan work diligently while Todd Mays seems to be interested in the front of the classroom.

Paying close attention to Mr. Charles Lauck are juniors Shannon Spencer and Tabb Osborne, while Donna Wetmore and Susan Ripley chat by the window.

Junior Fred Larsen grins as he and junior Rob Brittigan assiduously work on their analysis homework.

Head Games

The math department started the year off with all new textbooks, one new teacher - Mr. Jack Donald, and a new Apple II computer.

The new computer provides variety to the math program and was an unseen asset for the whole department. Mr. Donald and Mrs. Jane Freeman worked with the computer. Mrs. Freeman wrote two programs to help students in Algebra I and General Math, and Mr. Donald used the computer to schedule students for next year. Mrs. Freeman commented, "The variety is good for the students; it provides drill work that gives immediate feedback. It is really nice for the students."

In October seniors Caroline Edmunds, Rebecca Whitney and Curt McCullough participated in the annual Mathematics Rally at Radford University. Later, in November, seniors Caroline Edmunds, Skipper Staton, and Penny Paul participated in the James Madison University Math Rally. Caroline later commented, "Both of the tests were absurdly difficult; I could only work three or four problems on each one and had to guess at the rest. The trips were worthwhile, though, since I learned a little math and saw some interesting people."

The annual Mathematics Association of America Contest was held in March. Of the twenty-seven people who took the examination, Andrea LaRue came in first in the school. Fred Larsen was second, and Curt McCullough came in third.

To round out the year, Mr. Charles Lauck remarked, "All in all it has been a good year, although some students are still having problems dealing with fractions and decimals."

Working busily on their assignment, juniors Quinn Merchant and Richard Grim seem to know what they're doing.

Wondering when the Algebra II class will end, juniors Julie Blankenship, Susi Herrick, Jeanette Hotinger, and Kim Hatcher seem preoccupied.

Heavy Metal

Working 9 to 5, Paula Clark displays mechanical ability by putting together a car engine.

While most students were filing into first-period classes or getting ready for lunch, several upperclassmen were loading onto buses to go to classes at the Floyd S. Kay Vocational-Technical School.

Seniors, who took classes in the morning session, and juniors, who went to vo-tech in the afternoon, were offered seven different programs: agricultural-machinery, auto-body repair, building trades, drafting, electronics, power mechanics, and industrial cooperative training.

Mr. Joe Wheeling, principal of the school, commented, "The agricultural-machinery service option was offered to students interested in the maintenance, management, servicing, and repair of farm machinery." Classes studied tool identification and usage and the servicing and repair of small engines and farm power units.

"The aim of the auto-body program," said Mr. Wheeling, "was to launch the student on a successful career in the world of automobile construction, hand and power tools, welding, refinishing, and repairs."

Drafting classes studied freehand sketching, use of instruments, lettering, geometric constructions, projections, sectional views, drafting mathematics, assembly drawings, machine design, architectural work drawings, and building codes.

Topics studied in the electronics course included electricity, ohm's law, series and parallel circuits, transistors, audio and radio frequency circuits, and television receivers. Senior Randy Harrison explained, "I came to get some experience in the field of electronics in order to prepare me for the future." The power mechanics course, said Mr. Wheeling, offered students "the quickest and easiest way possible to learn about the automobile, the power plant, and related subjects such as small engine repair and overhaul." Classes covered tool identification and use, engine tuneup, engine assembly, fuel, and maintenance. Senior Paula Clark commented that she took the course because "I'm going into the army as a commissioned mechanic, it's lots of fun and you learn alot.'

"The purpose of the industrial cooperative training program," pointed out Mr. Wheeling, "is to provide, through work experience and related studies, technical, health or service training opportunities. The program develops a cooperative association among the students, school, business/industry, and community." Classes studied job applications and interviews, work habits, labor and management goals, and safety hazards.

"The two-year building trades curriculum," commented Mr. Wheeling, "is a 'cluster' program," meaning that students are introduced to several related areas. They studied measurement, layout, blueprint reading, bricklaying, installation of electrical circuits, and stair construction.

Patrick Donald, a building trades student, had perhaps the best reason for taking classes at the vo-tech school: "No exams, working and learning, not learning from a book. It's like a job. You're not always in school, you're outside. You work with a lot of people."

What goes to what? Senior Randy Harrison turns to get instruction.

Waiting patiently for their entrance, members of the concert choir perform during the annual Christmas concert.

Soloist Kim Daniels performs during a school assembly to give the student body a sneak preview of the Spring Variety Show.

Braving the heat of band camp, freshman David Jones practices his music and marching for future halftime shows.

Sunning themselves on Torian Beach, members of the exchange band from Otego, New York and their hosts wait in anticipation of lunch.

During a speech by Mr. Torian, Reserve Band member Tammy Jarvis closes her eyes for a brief moment to relax.

Band On The Run

"They did well in spite of me," theorized director Charles Torian of the Reserve and Concert Bands and Concert Choir. Each of the three groups achieved some remarkable accomplishments.

In January, the Concert Band monopolized the Area All-County Band with over half the band hailing from LHS. Twelve members of the Concert Band participated in the All-Regional Band held in February at John Hanley H.S. in Winchester with Ronnie Canfield, Amy Carter, Linda DeVogt, Maria Hunsicker, and Liza Woods playing in the Concert Band; and, exhibiting their musical abilities in the Symphonic Band were Beth Harris, Paul Kirgis, Lisa Mahood, John Merchant. Clark Raynal, Donna Wetmore, and Rebecca Whitney. Rebecca went on to perform in the All-State Band at Woodbridge H.S. near Washington D.C.; only the sixth person from LHS to go and the first soprano clarinet.

Also in January, Alicia Buchanan, Hugh Jarrard, Janice Judy, Lisa Mahood, Rebecca Whitney, and Pam Ziegler took a part in a clinic held at East Tennessee State University.

"It's amazing the things that we learned and the fun that we had," commented sophomore Hugh Jarrard about his weekend. Playing grade V music at the festival held at Buffalo Gap H.S., the Concert Band received a superior rating of I, while the Reserve Band received an excellent rating of II.

Eighth grader Paula Dale remarked, "The Reserve Band is one terrific group and I enjoy being in it."

The Concert Band was fortunate enough to be able to travel to Otego, New York to perform an exchange concert with the Unatego Band in April. They visited some surrounding towns and overall, everyone had a good time.

The band continued its monthly city-wide newspaper pick-ups with the money being contributed to the participating band members' expenses on the spring exchange trip.

The band council officers were Library Chairman Donna Wetmore, Uniform Chairman Cordell Sensabaugh, Flag Captains Conna Duff and Paula McKemy, Drum Majors Robyn Rorrer and Steve Felts, Student Conductor Rebecca Whitney, Historian Beth Harris, Sec./Tres. Lisa Mahood, and President Lynne Jamison.

The Concert Choir had several major undertakings, one of which was the collection of Robert Frost poems set to music entitled "Frostiana." It held a special concert with the W&L Glee Club in February in which they performed this work.

The Choir sponsored two variety shows. The money that they earned on the fall show went to purchase new risers for the chorus. The Pops Choir attended an all day workshop for Pops Choirs in May at Turner Ashby H.S.

Six members of the Concert Choir sang in the All Regional Chorus: Rob Brittigan, Kim Daniels, Margaret Furgeson, Clark Raynal, Robert Rorrer, and Liza Woods. Margaret was a first alternate soprano for the All-State Chorus.

The members of the Choir Council were Soprano Reps. Ella May Sensabaugh and Melodie Coffey, Alto Reps. Con Burch and Kelly Berry, Male Reps. Clark Raynal and Todd Mays, Sec./Tres. Rob Brittigan, Vice-President Kim Daniels, and President Margaret Furgeson who commented, "I think the choir has come a long way since I started high school and if next year's choir works as hard as we did this year, I know they'll be great."

Although it is shakey whether or not the Music Department will still be in tact next year, the spirit and determination of those who make up the department never faltered.

At the winter Art Show, senior Wesley Floyd has every reason to grin as his floor mat won "Best in Show"

This menagerie of goblins and, uh, whatevers, was once just a lump of paste. Art I students are the ones responsible for these dramatic transformations.

Producing clay molds at the spring Art Show are freshman Laura Smith, and eighth graders Joyce Campbell and Lorrie Kelly.

Colour My World

Excursions and exhibits highlighted the year. Art students visited the Dupont Art Gallery at W & L, which featured the works of various artists including Ralph Grant, Robbie Tillotson, and Winslow Homer. On one trip to Dupont Hall, Professor I-Hsuing Ju amazed the students by demonstrating his painting skills.

Art shows in December and May displayed the hard work of the students. The ''Best-in-Show'' award at the December show went to senior Wesley Floyd for his floor mat. Wesley confidently said, ''I know all the things I've learned this year will help me in college as I pursue my career in art.''

Students submitted paintings and drawings of plants for the Mountain

View Greenhouse art exhibits. A few students sold their art pieces, among them, junior Jennifer Batty, "I think it's great to be able to make money doing something I like to do."

Thirteen original pen and ink drawings of historic houses in Lexington and Rockbridge County were featured on the Art Club calendar. The calendars were sold and two car washes were held to raise money for the Art Club trip to Washington, D.C. The Art Club took its two day trip in March. The students toured museums and shopped. Junior David Fitch was especially thrilled with the movie "To Fly" at the Air and Space Museum but enthusiasticly said, "the trip in itself was so exciting!"

Outside the gates of the White House, eighth grader Rodney Clark and senior Beth Ewing relax for a few moments during the Art Club trip.

The Main Ingredient

Consumer and Homemaking I spent the year learning about food preparation and sewing. The two classes have worked with food related projects such as diets, nutrition, and cooking. Their first sewing project was to make an apron which the enthusiastic students finished in a hurry so they could begin another garment. Many of them came in during lunch and after school so as to get as much accomplished as possible. Mrs. Lois Dunlap, teacher of the classes, cheerfully commented that "the 1982 class was a wild, wonderful group who really enjoyed each other and worked well together."

The combined Home Ec II and III classes are also taught by Mrs. Dunlap. For one of the areas they are studying, Food Management, the classes froze food in the fall so they could use it later in the year. Child Development and Clothing Management are studied together and the students decided to sew clothes for children as their main project. Their work was displayed at Open House.

Another part of the Home Economics department is Food Service which is taught by Mrs. Vicki Chambers. Natural Bridge, Rockbridge and Lexington High Schools all participate in Food Service during a 2½ hour class.

In order to save money, Mrs. Chambers got a bus license to drive the students to all of the contests herself. The Food Service class has participated in three culinary arts competitions this year. The first was the Virginia Restate Association held in November which had 300 entries. Wanda Reynolds of NBHS won first with her ham and vegetable englee, and Delores Reynolds, also of NBHS, won second with her Turkey chaud-froid. Receiving a first for her whole fish chaud-froid was Brenda Wilhelm of Rockbridge High School.

The next competition was the Northern Virginia Region Culinary Arts Show held in March. Out of the 110 entrants there were only 16 places to be awarded. The LHS group won Best Overall Chapter and Best in Show. At the state FHA-HERO Culinary Arts Show, Cindy Smith came in first with her ham and vegetable englee, and Delores Reynolds received second with her pate en crote.

This was the first year in a long while that LHS had entered in the shows. Mrs. Chambers commented, "It has been an exciting year. The kids do outstanding work."

Learning about the business end of food services, junior Sarah Wilhelm figures how much their services are worth.

Learning how to lay out and cut material, eighth graders Candy Clark and Mary Swan start a skirt with the help of Mrs. Dunlap.

Eighth graders Jennifer Zollman and Marcie Goodbar work hard to make their first Home Ec. project their best.

Having fun as they work together are eighth graders Kaye Floyd and Debbie Martin.

Exhausted from her last class, Mrs. Chambers sits to enjoy a few solitary moments.

Brenda Petty, a RHS student, makes a cake for one of the Food Service class' many money raising projects.

Everyone watches Mrs. Dunlap as she shows her class the correct procedure for hemming garments.

Seniors Cheryl Painter and Bess Littlefield concentrate on their work for English as the rest of the class guides their attention toward the front off the classroom.

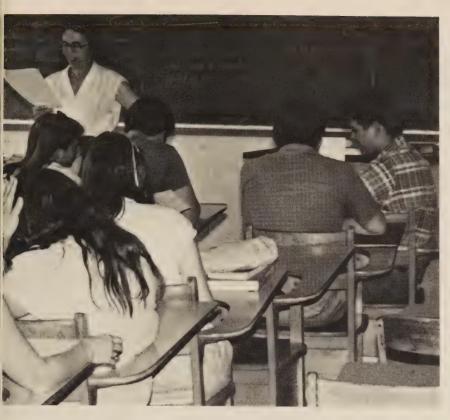

Displaying their creativeness derived from the Odyssey, freshmen Peppy Kessler, Sean Raborn, Ani Marshall, and Dawn Trandel appear proud of what they have accomplished.

As Sophomore Eric Walker questions her on his English paper, Mrs. Betty Collins decides on the approprite explanation.

Mrs. Dorothy Newman discusses the day's lesson while her class listens attentively.

Teach Your Children Well

The "A, B, C's" are still being taught with the usual flair by the teachers of the English Department. Mrs. Dorothy Newman, chairman of the English Department, explains that there are objectives for each class and grade level, but class outlines are flexible. The English teachers attempt to keep their classes and subjects consecutive, so as not to repeat something that was taught the previous year. The teachers consult with each other and come up with ideas that will flow from year to year. Mrs. Newman praised her department, saying, "I think we have less repetition because of our objectives which we have developed over the last 5 or 6 years, and because our department is so cooperative, enthusiastic and enjoyable to work with."

Mrs. Louise Marshall, a first year

teacher at LHS, voiced her opinions of her department, "I am impressed with the dedication and professionalism of my colleagues, . . . with the superior quality of instruction, . . . and by the cooperation and team work within the department."

The itinerary of this year's classes followed the same pattern which students have found so pleasurable in the past. The seniors saw Macbeth and worked on research papers. Senior Wesley Floyd commented, "the teachers make the classes enjoyable and interesting." The juniors also prepared a paper for the first time. Mr. Clark's and Mrs. Leadbetter's classes read Romeo and Juliet and West Side Story and attended the movie version of both. For the 8th and 9th graders, grammar was stressed and 9th graders read The Odyssey and

To Kill A Mockingbird.

One elective English class, Advanced Composition, is for students who want to concentrate on creative writing and some of the units studied were poetry, humor, film, and short stories. They read The French Lieutenant's Woman and after writing a screen play they planned to see the movie. The class publication, Reflections, is made up of work by the Advanced Composition class and other students. There were two books this year, one in Fall and one in Spring.

And so, our English teachers, in their own unique way, teach the A, B, C's using a method that provides enjoyment for both students and teachers

Up In Smoke

The science program saw some different faces with new teachers: Mr. Jack Donald, Mr. George Warren, and Mr. John Reese. Another new addition was the Apple II Computer, which was purchased by the Physics Department.

Mr. Potter commented, "I think that the program is effective, but the enrollment is declining. Part of this is due to the fact that science requires work."

Some of the field trips consisted of a trip to the Natural Bridge Caverns by Mr. Potter's ninth grade earth science classes. Juniors Conna Duff, Greg Krammes, Fred Larsen, and Donna Wetmore attended the National Junior Science and Humanities Symposium in Charlottsville. These students were selected for their interest and achievements in chemistry.

In Mrs. Marge Rose's eighth grade science class, Herbie Rhodenizer and Jimmy Morton, both masters of the Rubik's Cube, produced a movie about the cube for a science project. With very little equipment or know how, they put together an animated movie on how to solve the cube after watching a film on the procedures for making a movie.

Mr. Paul Leonhard's Chemistry classes received a lecture on chemistry related careers by Col. Frank Settle of VMI.

Junior Jennifer Batty explained, "Chemistry is pretty good, but part of that might be because Mr. Leonhard is such a good teacher."

Discussing the events of the day, sophomores Liza Woods and Amy Carter and junior Maria Hunsicker take advantage of free time in Biology class.

Giving his mind a rest in Chemistry class, Sophomore Glenn Dudley looks up to see what's happening around him.

Freshmen Teddy Henneman, Dawn Trandel, Susan Phillips, and Dean Brown studiously work on their science assignment.

Earth Science teacher, Mr. Emory Potter, helps freshman Jeff Wines with a question that amuses him.

Thinking a little deeper than the other students, seniors Todd McCullough and Holly Buckhalt sleep during one of Jack Donald's lectures.

Makin' It

Some things never change, they just improve. In today's society high technology has changed many things. However, there is still a need for good craftsmen and farmers. The Industrial Arts and Agriculture Departments prepare students for the future in these fields. During the year, students made candle holders, bookshelves, stereo cabinets, coffee tables, dry sinks, and twin - lamps in wood technology class. Mechanical drawing classes were also offered. There were more girls participating in the program than ever before. Sophomore Marty Newcomb remarked, "I feel that I do better work than the boys!"

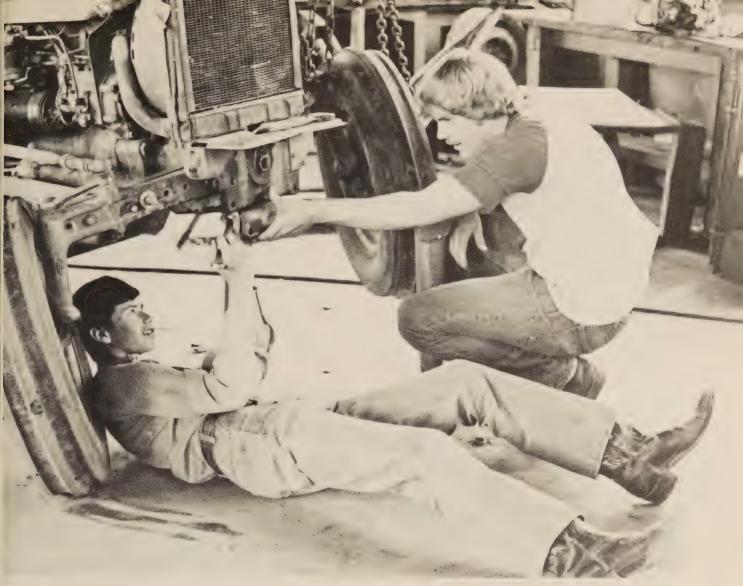

The Future Farmers of America won top honors in regional competition in forestry, small engine, and livestock. Teams also participated in public speaking, tractor driving, and soils. Vice-president Bobby Black commented that he "learned to be more responsible and enjoyed working on various types of farm machinery" by participating in the program. President Norman Mohler stated that, "The F.F.A. is very helpful in instilling qualities such as leadership, responsibility, and learning to cooperate with others in getting things done." "These things will help us in life," secretary Steve Moran pointed out. Mr. Rector Engleman acknowledged that, "This year has been as good a year as any other, if not better.'

Proving that shop is a fun place to work, freshman Dale Hartbarger laughs while sanding his bench.

Clowning around in class, sophomore James Harris prepares to duck an eraser.

Sophomore Bo Leadbetter puts the finishing touches on his nightstand by sanding down the rough edges.

Mr. Rector Engleman holds the material so Maria Erchul can tack it to the seat of her stool.

Working on a tractor, sophomore Tom Kerr and junior Chris Smith learn the basics of farm machinery repair.

Frére Jaques

Foreign languages are a very important part of the academic agenda of school life. There are two languages taught here: Latin and French. Along with the daily assignments, regular homework, and the hard work that goes along with a foreign language, there are also French and Latin clubs.

The Latin Club sponsored many activities: a pizza party at Frank's in October got the year off to a good start; Saturnalian banquet in December which everyone came dressed in togas and tunics to eat traditional Roman foods prepared by the students. When the May Day Carnival rolled around, Latin Club members enthusiastically participated by auctioning off slaves, and selling Roman bread and chariot rides. Finally, to end the year, Latin Club members made tee-shirts and had their annual picnic.

Numerous Latin students volunteered to participate in the National Latin exam in March sponsored by the American Classical League. The results were received in April. Although no students placed first, George Tehan, Philip Coulling, Kim McManus, Tom Rogers, Robbie Randolph, and Amanda Badgett placed "maxima cum laude" or second place. James LaRue, Andy Herrick, Eric Wilkerson, Hugo Kostelni, Tal McThenia, Tami Moore, Teresa Zybko, Collette Van Name, Ted Henneman, and Amy Carter received "magna cum laude" or third place. Jodi Beeman, Elizabeth Knapp, John Merchant, and Ed Shaffer received "cum laude" or fourth place. "It has been a pleasure working with such enthusiastic and interested students," commented Mrs. Carter Drake, referring to the students who took the exam. These students competed against 36,000 other Latin students across the U.S., Canada, and Japan.

Discipuli Laudandi consists of third year Latin students who have maintained at least a B average for five semesters. It is an honor society for superior Latin students. Students who received this honor were Jane Huntley, Amy Carter, Jon Mamon, Patty McDaniel, and Amanda Badgett.

The French Club, which consists of I-IV year French students, "was not real active this year," commented Mr. Alex Bourdrez, however the French Club did have a dinner at the end of the year and several speakers in class. Mr. Bourdrez has many ideas for next year's French Club. "It was a lot of fun," commented junior Ridge Robinson.

Junior Andrea LaRue and senior Robyn Rorrer lead sophomore Amy Carter to the site where she is to be inducted into Discipuli Laudandi.

Curiously staring at some of the Latin II projects, first year Latin student Catherine Overbeck wonders if she'll be able to create anything as imaginative next year.

During the May Day Carnival, Latin Club members Colette Van Name, Beth Humphries, and Vicky Swisher sell Roman bread and tee shirts

As Mr. Alex Bourdrez lectures, senior Penny Paul and junior Julie Blankenship appear to have a hard time believing him.

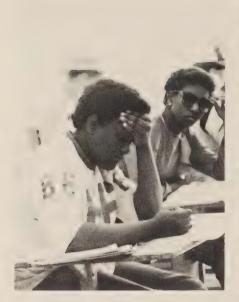

After being led on a wild goose chase, sophomores Amanda Badgett and Jon Mamon are guided by Discipuli Laudandi member Robyn Rorrer to their induction ceremony.

Trying to concentrate on his translation is hard for sophomore Robert Doss to do on one of the warmer days of Spring.

Freshmen Lisa Fennell and Andrea Henderson, members of Coach Bob Casper's class, concentrate on a reading assignment.

Happily sharing both personal and school pride, Principal Glenn Stark and freshman Donald Vest display the trophy Donald's project won in a World Geography Contest in Richmond.

All Around The World

World History, World Geography, Economics, Sociology, American History, and Government; what do all of these subjects have in common besides being the classes that compose the Social Studies Department? They all have excellent, qualified teachers, went on field trips, and heard numerous guest speakers.

One of the changes in the department was in the staff. Mr. Bob Casper taught World History, U.S. History, and World Geography. Mrs. Beverly Cappeto joined the staff in the middle of the year to teach Government and eighth grade social studies, replacing Mrs. Sandy Henderson.

A World Geography Contest took place in Richmond during April and it was a great honor for the school to have several students place in the contest. Ninth grader Donald Vest received a first place trophy for his project.

Seniors contributed a lot to the Social Studies Department's new experiences. Senior Government students participated in a program in connection with W&L's Moot Trials. The seniors also took a field trip to Washington D.C. where they were greeted by Congressman M. Caldwell Butler. They were escorted to the House floor and actually sat in the seats of the members of Congress, which no previous class had done.

Seniors Robyn Rorrer, Clark Waring, Linda Devogt, Caroline Edmunds, Lynne Jamison, and Polly Stevens participated in the Model U.N. Debates held at VMI in April.

Guest speakers enriched classroom learning during the course of the year including: Dr. Don Thomas from VMI who lectured on Karl Marx, Dr. Tom Davis also from VMI discussed the civil war in Northern Ireland. Roger and Barbara Kohler from Sweet Things visited Economics classes to advise students on how to open a business. Mr. Jeff Peck spoke on social work in Sociology classes. He represented the Social Services Dept. Chaplin Charles Caudill also spoke to Sociology classes on premarital sex. From the Modern Language Dept. at VMI, Dr. Michael Harris spoke about Judism.

Some of the field trips included: the Economics classes' visit to Morton's Frozen Food, a U.S. History class trip to the Jackson House, the Sociology classes visited the Presbyterian Children's Home, the Aloha Wok, Lewis' Funeral Home, and Mead Oriental Rugs.

The eighth graders participated in the Law Day Observance at the Court House. They watched a mock trial presided by a real judge.

Highlights of the department's year included the showing of the movie, The Last Hurrah, which Mr. Thomas Shaffer, a law professor at W&L, arranged for the senior Government classes to see. A trip to the Marshall Library at VMI was part of the program for U.S. History classes.

Mrs. Peggy Hays summarized, "As head of the department, I have been especially pleased with the efforts of individual members to be creative and at the same time cover the basics."

Senior sociology students, Helen Peebles and Holly Buckhalt, attempt to eat their meal the Polonesian way - with chopsticks at the Aloha Wok

Speaking on Jewish traditions in one of the sociology classes, Dr. Michael Harris shows a type of wafer-bread used during fast.

Each expressing a different emotion, seniors Linda DeVogt, Clark Waring, and Robyn Rorrer prepare to speak on their country, Japan, during the Mock U.N. Debates at VMI.

"Get dressed and be out on the floor in ten minutes," so goes the day by day routine of active P.E. The varied assortment of activities in the routine differ from week to week and include gymnastics, wrestling, basketball, flag football, volleyball, ball bombardment, and softball. Students are taught the basics of all of these sports, and pursue the pleasure of enjoying them. When asked what they like about P.E., freshman Sue Fallon replied, "I like dressing out and playing volleyball, but people always steal my clothes", while eighth grader Yvonne Watkins contradicted, "I like being in the mobile, dressing out makes me hot, sweaty, and miserable.

Aside from the everyday activities of active P.E., there comes a time when everyone must enter the mobile. The eighth graders, taught by Coach June Mays and Coach Mike Brown, enjoy the various teachings of Health and Your Environment. Coach Barbara Stenzel is in charge of teaching basic first aid to the ailing freshmen, and Coach Dave Melton teaches tomorrow's drivers of the sophomore class in Driver Education class. Mr. Brown commented, "I enjoy teaching P.E., but I find the 8th graders are more receptive to learning and easier to teach." Two quest speakers addressed the eighth grade P.E. students about alcohol and drugs- Mrs. Anne McThenia and State Trooper Jerry Hines.

While eighth graders expect two more years of P.E., sophomores anxiously await the time when they are juniors and no longer have to dress out.

State Trooper Jerry Hines lectures to Health classes about drug uses and abuses.

Demonstrating her management capabilities, senior Kathy Thompson plays her role of Accounting Manager to the hilt.

Working For The Weekend

The Business Department brags of increased student interest shown by increased enrollment which is continuing into 1983. Senior LaVerne Smith comments, "The business classes prepare us for what the real world will be like."

The faculty remains the same which provides continuity for the department. Versatile business teacher, Mrs. Joan Whitesell casually states that, "The three teachers have worked together now for eleven years. We share the same philosophy of teaching and the same teaching goals, and in doing so compliment each other in our work with students; i.e. the department is governed by team effort."

In the five Typing I classes, students became proficient in touch typewriting and formatting of reports and manuscripts, as well as statistical tables and personal business letters. General Business offered an introduction to banking operations, insurance, consumerism and career planning. Clerk I and Stenography I offer basic skills in office procedures. Clerk II and Steno II refine and advance those skills and knowledge while providing real work experience through the Cooperative Office Education Program (COE). Eighteen Students participated in the program and they work approximately 10-20 hours per week.

The Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) has been active also. Field trips were made to various businesses and FBLA'ers attended regional fall and spring meetings at James Madison University, winning the second place position in the poster contest.

The department has provided typing services for many of the other departments in the school as well as many community projects. Holly Clark, who has participated in many of these typing projects remarked, "Working with the business teachers and being a part of the Stenography class has given me the valuable experience that will carry over into my future plans."

As her Steno I teacher dictates shorthand, junior Bridget Conner listens closely.

Concentrating on the calculator, senior Jody Yeakel adds up columns of figures in her role as a billing clerk.

As the song goes: make new friends, but keep the old; one is silver and the other gold. So are the friends and memories of each new school year. As old friends graduate or move away, new faces rush in to take their place. It is a continuing cycle. Memories are like friends, they enhance with age. House Mountain is similar to a good friend. It is always reliable and trust-worthy. Although House Mountain doesn't change every school term, it remains steadfast and dependable while housing our mountain of memories.

I'll Play For You

Combining the talents of community residents, W&L, VMI, and area high school students, Mr. Bill McCorkle and Mr. Gordon Spice direct the Rockbridge Community Chorus and Orchestra, respectively. Both groups practice for two hours with the chorus practicing on Monday nights and orchestra on Wednesday nights.

Sixty voices make up the chorus including four from LHS: altos Caroline Edmunds and Chris Knudson, soprano Rebecca Whitney, and bass Clark Raynal.

"The music is challenging, but it is a good opportunity for students who want to further their musical education," commented senior Clark Raynal.

Out of forty players in the orchestra, french hornist Linda DeVogt, bassonist Lisa Mahood, oboist Maria Hunsicker, and violinists Missy Lamont and Kathy Wilson represent LHS.

Playing in the orchestra for three years, senior Lisa Mahood enthusiastically commented, "I really enjoy being in it and getting to know a lot of different people."

"It's been a fantastic education for me, since the music is difficult and we have to learn it quickly. There's an awful lot of talent in the chorus, and I think Bill McCorkle does a wonderful job as director," senior Caroline Edmunds offered.

"It is an experience to play with people who are serious musicans and Dr. Spice is very enthusiastic about our music," replied senior Linda DeVogt.

There are no set requirements to participate in the chorus or orchestra except that the members must be willing to work hard so that the groups will be a success.

Senior Rebecca Whitney, Sophomore Maria Hunsicker, and senior Linda DeVogt practice diligently for a Wednesday evening rehearsal.

Enveloped in her music, senior Kathy Wilson executes a vibrato.

The Big Apple

"I think we need more of them. It's a great purchase," acknowledged librarian, Mrs. Pat Roberts. What could she be talking about? Books? Records? Magazines? No!!! A more advanced educational tool the new Apple II computer.

Purchased in December, the Apple II was intended to be used in the Guidance office, but later another computer was requested for the library also, to help keep track of over due books. English and math drills, biology and chemistry can be programmed on the computer. The Business Department uses it to check the qualifications of students before they are hired for a job. The Apple II can also write letters for the school's office. It may also be programmed to schedule student classes for next year, as well as calculate class rank. The computer is also used by coaches Barbara Stenzel, Jack Donald and Paul Leonhard to figure game stats, and to record scouting reports.

The Crystal staff utilized the computer in the spring when they conducted their fund raiser "Spring Fever". Students filled out a questionnaire and on March 19 their names were fed into the Apple II computer and . . . presto!! Each student was presented with a list of their five most compatible matches.

"It provides a positive outlet for students during their free time. I really enjoy playing on it," affirmed Mr. Paul Leonhard, chemistry teacher and computer wizard.

"I wish there were more games; they need Space Invaders," joked senior Todd McCullough.

The Apple II Computer has proved to be a great fascination for the students at LHS and senior Brad Jarvis is not an exception, as he takes an opportunity to use the computer, which makes its home in the library.

Friends, partying, Christmas and Halloween, dances, banquets, swimming, concerts and the big city of Chicago all right at your fingertips. Where could you have all this plus $500 in one summer? Most people would say heaven or paradise, but ask junior Chris Greene and he'll say Lockport, Illinois at Shady Oaks Camp for Cerebral Palsy.

As Chris sat in art class wearing a pair of Blues Brother's glasses, he talked fondly of his experience last summer at Shady Oaks. His main duties included counseling the handicapped campers and helping out in the kitchen, although both entailed many jobs within themselves.

For almost two months, Chris' days started out by getting up at 8:00 A.M. to go through the routine of getting the campers ready for the busy day ahead.

"It was just like taking care of a baby," Chris recalls, without resentment. They had to be wheeled in their wheelchairs or escorted on crutches to breakfast, then to morning activities which included crafts, swimming, and games, followed by naps and relaxation.

In the afternoon, activities started up again with field trips to Chicago, concerts, touring the Nabisco and Hershey factories, going to amusement parks, or simply buying ice-cream cones. Lights-out was at 10:00 for the younger campers and 12:00 for the older ones.

Sunday, church was available but not required. Each week featured a different religion.

Some "special occasions" that Chris recalled were "Christmas" when campers and staff exchanged gifts, a Halloween dance, and a Lysol party which was a day designated to cleaning.

"Everyone who comes experiences such love that the last day seemed like the end of the world," says Chris obviously wanting others to have the same touching, learning experience as he had. He, along with friends who are interested in the idea, plan to return to Camp Shady Oaks.

Chris seemed inspired by his experience when he commented, "Days when I would wake up mad or grumpy, the campers would make me smile and laugh. Despite their handicaps, they always have a smile on their face and can make me smile."

One of the hardest things Chris had to remember in his early weeks, was how important it was to treat handicapped people like normal people, but as time and the campers themselves showed him, it became the natural thing to do.

Chris now wants to get into special education. That alone says something for both Chris and his summer at Camp Shady Oaks.

Adding shine to one of the engines, junior Kendall Hassler exhibits the virtue of patience and pride in his work.

When You're Hot You're Hot . . .

Dressed in snazzy uniforms riding through the streets of Lexington, three members of the Junior Fire Department join the Senior Firemen majestically perched on gleaming fire engines with blaring sirens in parades. Being a Junior Fireman is no easy task and the respect they command is deserving of an occasional parade.

Cleaning the fire fighting equipment, learning necessary skills, and answering emergency calls in record time are some of the responsibilities they must undertake. Their rigorous training includes: wearing air-packs, climbing ladders, practicing forceable entries, and learning techniques essential in fighting forest fires.

Three students from LHS participate in this program. They are junior Kendall Hassler who serves as President of the Junior Firemen, sophomore Marty Graves-Vice President, and sophomore Rick Raymond-Sec./ Treas. Although each admits that the work is hard, they feel it is vital to their becoming Senior Firefighters. Before achieving this rank, they must acquire a certain amount of knowledge and training which is provided by the Senior Firemen.

Kendall concluded, "It is a worthwhile learning experience."

"I enjoy it a lot and it's a great way to spend my extra time," commented Marty. Sentiments that Rick echoed as he added, "I enjoy working with the Fire Department."

These young men are working hard for a praiseworthy goal and deserve respect. So next time there's a parade, wave at the guys who just might save your life sometime.

Ranging in age from six to fourteen, 220 youths participated in the youth soccer program. The senior division consisted of 64 boys and girls, ages 12-14, with thirty-six students from L.H.S.

Sophomore Scott Williams, freshmen Tom Aycock, Kent Doane, Jenny Elmes, Troy Hall, Teddy Henneman. Jonathan Hughes, David Jones, Paul Kirgis, Tal McThenia, Jonathan Patterson, Mark Rough, Sam Settle, Jeb Stewart, Rob Stewart, Ray Van Ness, Larry Vaughn, Sonny Weems, Timmy Wimer, Jim Wines, Damon Woody, and David Zybko participated in the program along with eighth graders Michael Boyes, Robbie Canfield, Mark Cathey, Robbie Cauley, Phillip Coulling, Jake Darrell, Brent Faulkner, Andy Herrick, James LaRue, Lyle McClung, David Mette, Sarah Rorrer, Kimberly Schwab, and Heath Whitney.

The senior division, divided into four teams, consisted of the Hurricanes with a record of 8-3, the Raiders with a record of 7-2-2, and the Marauders and the Arsenal both with a record of 2-7-2.

Mr. Rick Kirgis started the program three years ago. Parents and volunteers coached the teams whose games took place on Saturday mornings at Washington & Lee.

Commenting on the soccer program, Tal McThenia agreed, "Even after four years of doing it, I haven't gotten bored yet."

"It was fun," stated Mark Cathey, "alot of kids should be in it."

"I enjoyed it very much, it is an alternative to football," added David Zybko.

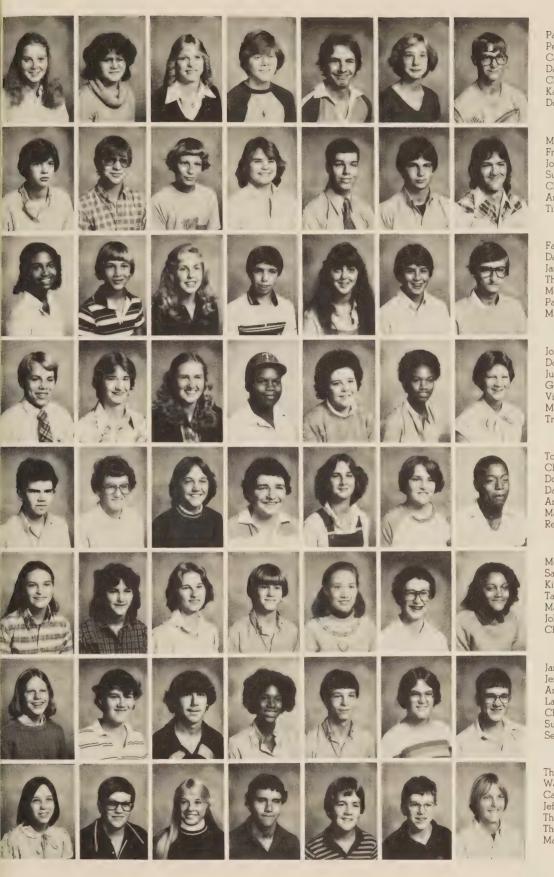

Taking the ball down the field to attempt to score is freshman Timmy Wimer.

Going for his personal best, eighth grader Stanford Vinson attempts to gain points by eating the colorful monsters.

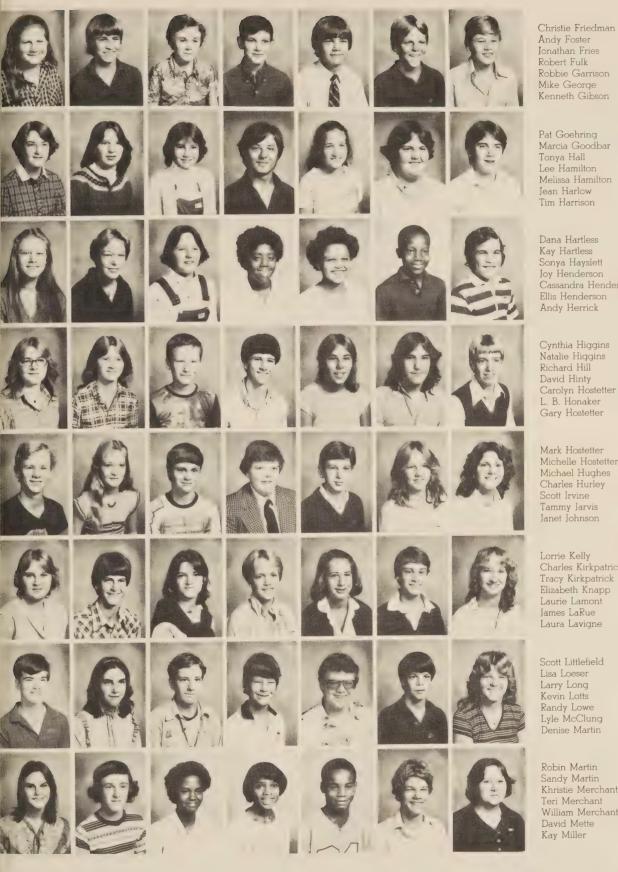

Pac-Man Fever

With over 250,000 of these in the world and a new hit song, "Pac-Man Fever," to brag about this popular new video game, Pac-Man has become king of the video market. Americans during 1981 spent $8 million a week on Pac-Man.

The object of Pac-Man is to maneuver a set of jaws around a maze, eating dots while avoiding ravenous monsters who are on your back at every turn.

Eighth grader Stanford Vinson, one of Lexington's avid players of Pac-Man, pointed out that, "It's difficult up until the ninth key; that's when the pattern changes," but Stanford's highest score is very respectable - 247,110.

Atari has announced a new Pac-Man game, Ms. Pac-Man. When all the dots have been eaten, Ms. Pac-Man and Mr. Pac-Man come together to form little Pac-Babies.

Don't Talk To Strangers

What do John Denver and Ms. Elizabeth Ramsey have in common? They both visited China over the Fourth of July.

Ms. Ramsey journeyed to the People's Republic of China for a three week stay with Margaret Coulling ("77) and Mrs. Mary Coulling of Lexington. They traveled with a group of about 30 other tourists and guides and saw such places as Peking, X'ian, Canton, Shang-hai, and the Great Wall of China.

Even though she knew a little Chinese, Ms. Ramsey said she spoke mostly English because the Chinese students were anxious to practice their English on Americans.

When asked how the Chinese acted towards the tourists, Ms. Ramsey replied that "in the large cities they're used to tourists," but added that "western clothes and features always attracted attention."

Ms. Ramsey has no plans to return now but wants to go back in 5 or 10 years to see how much things have changed.

Wearing his WWII uniform, Mr. Emory Potter guest speaks, bringing to life his experiences of the war, for Ms. Elizabeth Ramsey's U.S. History class.

At the yearbook assembly, Mr. George Warren and Mrs. Pat Randolph's dream to be disco king and queen comes true in their fantasy.

Cafeteria

An esteemed member of the Lexington High School teaching staff will be leaving us this year. Mrs. Dorothy Newman, chairman of the English Department, is retiring after devoting 25 years to the teaching profession.

Many students recognize Mrs. Newman as a dedicated, loyal English teacher, but her talents aren't limited to grammar. Before Mrs. Newman became a teacher at L.H.S. she was one of three members, on the staff at Fairfax Junior High School in Fairfax County. She taught at this school for two years; during that time she taught the 8th and 9th grades. She also taught girls' P.E., was the school librarian, coached the Drama Club plays and the Glee Club, and was the girls' basketball Coach. She frankly admits, the team's record was "nothing to speak of, but it was alot of fun anyway." Mrs. Newman had gone to Fairfax right after graduation from Randolph-Macon Women's College. Before her senior year being an English teacher was the last thing she had considered doing, although she had always planned on being a teacher. She had majored in French and had planned to teach in France after graduation. Her plans turned to ashes, as WWII broke out. She decided to take two education classes her senior year and give up her dreams of France. Describing that time in her life, she says, "I didn't stop to think of disappointment, it was the war, that was all. I was fairly realistic, it was a necessity to get education classes and find work in the U.S."

She has collaberated with Mrs. Nanalou Sauder for about ten years on the American Studies class for juniors. Mrs. Newman said that it has been alot of fun, besides being intellectually stimulating. She has enjoyed teaching and Mrs. Saunder, whom she found to be both cooperative and creative. These sentiments are shared by her partner, Mrs. Sauder, who has found it to be a great pleasure to work with a "a lady in the real sense of the word," the someone who "understands the world and the people in it," and who "helped to teach her about it." Mrs. Sauder concluded with the feeling that "the school will miss Mrs. Newman and I thank her for her wisdom."

Mrs. Newman has taught in Lexington for 23 years, at both the old L.H.S. and the new; she has taught all grades within the high school and has found the administration, a pleasure to work with. She said, that "everyone has been so nice to me, that I've always enjoyed it." Our principal, Mr. Stark confirmed that "we will fill Mrs. Newman's position next year with another person, but there is no way we will replace Mrs. Newman." Her own department has been a joy; she finds her co-workers, cooperative, imaginative and interested in their students, an interest she shares.

When asked what she plans to do upon retiring, she paused, then quietly smiled and said, "I'll catch up on things I haven't been able to do, read a book I haven't assigned to my students, and work with my flowers. Oh, I'll have plenty to do."

Few realize the warmth and gentle humor, tempered by wisdom, that harbours within our own Mrs. Newman, and her retirement will be an invaluable loss to the school, students and fellow teachers. When speaking of her impending retirement, she says, "I'm sure I'll miss teaching, after you've done something for twenty-five years, you can't just stop and leave off . . . especially with people, because I enjoy people." And people, Mrs. Newman, have certainly enjoyed you.

We will miss you, our best wishes go with you. May your leisure hours be filled with beautiful flowers and good books. Au Revoir and Merci Beaucoup.

She's Got A Way

While academics and sports are a vital part of school life, clubs are equally important. Providing activities for a diversity of interest ranging from the academic clubs of Discipuli Laudandi and Forensics to the spirited pep squad. Several of the schools athletic teams can be classified as clubs: the Lexington Laccrosse Club, the swim team, and the soccer club. With such a wide variety of activities, students don't have any trouble getting side tracked from homework.

School's Out For Summer

The joyful screams of the grade-school children at the city pool were only a parking lot away. The laughter and water splashing agonized the entire school though open windows. As the underclassmen halfheartedly reviewed for exams, they had this, plus many more distractions. The seniors had graduated and gone to the beach and the gorgeous weather teased those students who tried studying in their rooms or in libraries- anywhere to try to be ready for those dreaded final exams. Even downtown was a distraction with both colleges packing up.

But through it all, House Mountain stood as an inspriration. Now that it's over and the eighth graders won't be "punky eighth graders" anymore, the freshmen will be the "middle kids", the sophomores will be big juniors, the juniors will finally be seniors, and the seniors will be driving off to colleges all over the country, the mountain will always be the memorable inspiration to those who live in its valley.

Preparing to show his skill at throwing the ball, is eighth grader Robbie Garrison, while others of the crowd seem skeptical of his aim.

The cool, unreadable face of senior Skipper Staton gave nothing away during the mock murder trial held by Mrs Peggy Hays' government class. Skipper was convicted of the murder, although he was eventually proven innocent. Nice to know, isn't it?

Practicing their new routines, juniors Conna Duff, Pam Ziegler, and freshmen Pam Smith, Ani Marshall, and Karen Hostetter, hold their flags steady against the whipping wind.

Peeping out of the windows of Mobile 1, to give a friendly smile are juniors Timothy Smith, Elaine Wills, and Alvin Merchant.

Juniors Willie Wilhelm, Barbie Hostetter, Natalie Brown, and sophomore Brenda Miller find the shade provided by the tree, perfect for an afternoon talk.

Memories

As we reflect on the school year our memories are filled with hours spent in class, after school, and with friends. The classes that we took were designed to prepare us for future learning and experiences. The after school activities we participate ed in make us well rounded individuals and enhance our responsibilities and leadership roles. The new friendships we make and old friendships we retain fill our minds with warm thoughts and memories. As seniors graduate and leave steady and reliable things behind for the new and different, they will never forget the courses, teachers, friends clubs, and sports because the Crystal houses a mountain of memories.

House Mountain keeps a watchful eye on Lexington and Rockbridge County.
